Nationalists Claim Air Victory

Supplies Go Into Quemoy Amid Heavy Red Shelling

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Fresh supplies poured to Quemoy's defenders by air and sea amid heavy Communist artillery fire today.

The buildup came as the Chinese Nationalists announced another aerial victory that boosted their claimed kills to 29—without a Nationalist loss—since the Aug. 23 flareup of the offshore war.

Pilots reported one MIG17 shot down and another possibly damaged in a battle late Thursday off Swatow between four of their American-built Sabre Jets and 16 of Red China's Soviet-supplied fighters.

The first Nationalist ship convoy to cross Formosa Strait since Monday sailed through a Red barrage and sent amphibious vehicles racing to Quemoy's beaches with cargo to replensih garrison stocks. Four correspondents witnessed the operation on a flight back to Taipei.

Transport planes parachuted high-priority supplies to the island overnight through skies peppered by bursting shells. It was the third such operation in three nights.

Though the supplies are flowing again, the big questions are how much is getting through and how long the blockade puncturing can be kept up.

These are vital questions because American policy of containing the Formosa Strait war seems now to hinge on denying the Reds the chance to starve out Quemoy.

Warships of the U.S. 7th Fleet are escorting the convoys. Destroyers made the run today with the supply ships. Newsmen sighted two or three flying the American flag. The warships stayed well outside the three-mile limit.

Sources close to President Chiang Kai-shek let it be known they feel even the present massive supply effort eventually will fail.

They contended the United States must choose between a firm declaration to defend the islands, and thus perhaps persuade the Reds to abandon the blockade, or face the prospect of an eventually enlarged war with bombings by both sides.

They suggested that both Quemoy and Matsu should be placed under the wing of the present U.S.-Nationalist defense treaty, which now guarantees American assistance against attack on Formosa and the Pescadores only.

Hundreds of tons of supplies are needed daily for current use and to maintain reserve stocks. Two weeks ago almost nothing was getting through. But recent statements of both Chinese officials and American advisers indicate things are looking up for the island, five miles off Red China.

Nationalist Vice President Chen Cheng declared publicly the Red blockade has been broken. But military officials are not that optimistic.

A new obstacle to the supply line is the monsoon season, just beginning, which produces mountainous waves in Formosa Strait.

Until spring these heavy seas will help protect Formosa and the Pescadores Islands, 80 to 120 miles off Red China, from surface invasion. But they also interfere with Nationalist convoys.

Because of the weather threat, the supply line will be inadequate until the Nationalists can send in daily several times what is used up in one day, said Rear Adm. Liu Hoh-tu, defense ministry spokesman. He reported the Nationalists will dispatch convoys as often as we can under all conditions."

The Defense Ministry said the Chinese Communists hurled 5,308 shells at Quemoy Thursday.

The ministry denied a declaration by Radio Peiping that a Nationalist Sabre Jet had been damaged over Fukien province and two C46 transports damaged in airdropping supplies to Quemoy. The ministry said all returned safely.

Dulles Says 'No Retreat' On Formosa

Declares Red China Aided By Russia Is Threatening U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles conferred with top Western diplomats today after serving notice that the United States will "make no retreat in the face of force" on Formosa.

In a speech before the Far East-American Council of Commerce and Industry in New York Thursday night, Dulles charged that Red China—aided by Soviet arms, supplies, and moral support — is "threatening war against us in the Formosa area."

"The United States is not prepared to retreat in the face of armed force," he declared. But, he added, "our position is otherwise flexible."

Dulles said the United States welcomed Peiping's willingness to resume the U.S.-Red Chinese talks and was prepared, "in accord with our United Nations Charter oblgiation, to settle the dispute by peaceful means."

"We believe that the Soviet Union, if it wanted to see a peaceful solution, could make that possible," he said.

The secretary spoke amid indications that the gloom into which the Formosa crisis had plunged Washington was lifting slightly.

Spirits were bolstered by a Pentagon estimate that Nationalist China is strong enough to hurl back any Red Chinese invasion attempt against Quemoy without U.S. armed help.

There was a feeling in U.N. circles that the Reds were easing their pressure in Formosa — perhaps in the face of a solid Western front.

Both Britain and France joined in supporting American efforts to get a cease-fire in the crisis.

The Warsaw talks continued to drag on despite reports of deadlock.

U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam told newsmen in the Polish capital he would meet again next Tuesday with the Red Chinese envoy, Wang Ping-nan.

The main fear at this stage appeared to be that Peiping is not as experienced at international fencing as Moscow, and might accidentally step over the brink.

Dulles, after declaring the United States was firmly set not to retreat in the face of force, described the United States' "otherwise flexible" position in these words:

"We would find acceptable any arrangement which, on the one hand, did not involve surrender to force or the threat of force, and on the other hand, eliminated from the situation features that could reasonably be regarded as provocative or which were, to use President Eisenhower's words, 'a thorn in the side of peace.'"

Conceding that the Nationalist-held offshore islands were not "an ideal defensive position," he compared the situation with the 1948 Berlin blockade.

"Berlin is militarily indefensible," he said, but the United States and its allies "risked war, and stand committed today to risk war rather than surrender Berlin."

Pair Strikes Agency At Closing Time

One Brandishes Gun Nervously In Foray At Hendershot Co.

A hunt fanned out across a three-state area today for two holdup men who took $160 from a second-floor insurance agency in the heart of downtown East Liverpool Thursday about 5 p. m., bound the manager and three employes with adhesive tape and then escaped through roadblocks set up throughout the district.

The two held up the C. W. Hendershot Insurance Agency in the Potters Savings & Loan Co. Building at Washington St. and Broadway, binding the wrists of C. W. Hendershot, 812 Bradshaw Ave., the operator, two women employes, Miss Margaret A. Baum of W. 7th St. and Mrs. Sarah L. Jenkins, 419 E. 4th St., and Glenn V. Wilson 1035 Vine St., an agent and Hendershot's son-in-law.

Only one of the bandits showed a gun — a .38- or .32 - caliber blue steel pistol. He was the younger of the pair, described as about 20 and very nervous — frequently waving the pistol and warning the holdup victims against outcries or attempts to resist.

His companion was about 30. Both men wore sunglasses as a disguise and brown work gloves to prevent the possibility of leaving a fingerprint. The gun-toter, about 5-feet-9, wore light colored clothing with a plaid shirt and black shoes.

The older man was described as about 6 feet tall, of medium build, wearing dark blue trousers, and brown or tan tennis shoes. He had a distinctively large mouth, the holdup victims said.

The two entered the insurance agency office and shut the door just at closing time—at 5 or 5:05. Hendershot was sitting at the desk in his private office, studying a large map.

"The first indication I had of a holdup was when I looked up and the man said: 'Come out here'," he related. "At first I thought it was some sort of a joke, but I saw he had a gun in his hand."

"When I went into the other office, he said: 'This is a stickup' and told me to stand by the door. He called the two girls out of their office and said: 'Now we want all the money'."

Hendershot related that he enquired if the men wanted only cash, not checks, and one replied: "Only cash." Then he instructed the women to remove the money from the unlocked safe, where it had been placed ready for closing time.

The bandits were handed $148.72 in office receipts. Then they spotted the petty cash in the bottom of the safe and asked for it also. The petty cash also was surrendered—$12.23. One of the men placed the money in a large manila envelope which he carried, except to put some of the change in his pockets.

Then the bandits ordered Hen-

Coon Hunter Found Dead With Bullet Hole In His Thigh

Roy T. Bracken, 56, of Darlington R. D. 1, a Crucible Steel Co. employe, was found dead Thursday afternoon with a bullet wound in his thigh after he had gone coon hunting early yesterday.

Two step-suns, Earl and Carl Peacock, and another searcher, Mitchel Zlatovich, discovered the body at the foot of a tree which contained a dead coon about a mile from his home in South Beaver Township.

They had started a search when he failed to return from the midnight hunting trip.

Dr. Thomas Todd, Beaver County coroner, performed an autopsy about 6 p. m. yesterday at the Rochester General Hospital.

It was thought Mr. Bracken may have bled to death from the wound but the coroner said no hemorrhage area was found. A final ruling awaits report of laboratory tests in about 10 days.

The coroner said Mr. Bracken was shot in the left thigh by a .22-caliber pistol and died between 5 and 6 a. m. yesterday.

Both a shotgun and the pistol were found near Mr. Bracken. One coon lay dead on the ground, killed by the shotgun, and the one caught in the tree had been shot with the pistol.

Mr. Bracken, who worked in the transportation department of the Midland works, decided to go coon hunting after his 3-11 shift Wednesday night, his family said.

His wife, Eulah, became alarmed yesterday morning and called Joe Perine, one of his frequent hunting companions.

Perine contacted Andrew Daniels, Ohio Township officer, who began the search at 7:45 a. m. Later, Daniels called for Ohio Township firemen to assist.

U.S. Vanguard Rocket Fired Toward Space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A fiery Vanguard rocket was launched toward space today carrying a satellite that may help solve many of the mysteries of the earth's weather.

Confirmation on whether the United States finally had placed its fourth satellite in orbit was expected from Washington in two hours.

The 72-foot, bullet-shaped rocket housed a 20-inch, 21½-pound satellite which, if orbited successfully, could spot large storm masses such as hurricanes and typhoons as they build up around the earth.

This was the seventh try at shooting a composite three-stage Vanguard, with only one success chalked up to date.

It was also the first time a Vanguard had been fired successfully in two months. During the interim the slender missile was checked out from top to bottom and a few minor adjustments made in the first two stages.

An attempted launching of this same rocket was scrubbed last week when an electrical breakdown caused automatic engine cutoff a split second before liftup. The mighty Vanguard engine ignited then with a flash but shut down just as quickly when the trouble developed.

Elusive Rider Finally Settles For Taxi Fare

An East Liverpool taxi driver finally collected a $2.45 fare today in Municipal Court from a patron accused of jumping over a fence and vanishing into Waterford Park Race Track after a ride from the Bus Terminal Sept. 9.

Raymond H. Rowley, 924 Peake St., the cabbie, filed false pretense charges against his vanishing patron, identified as Edward House, 23, a transient employed at the race track. House pleaded not guilty, but testified: "I could have done that when I was drinking and not remember it."

"This is a unique case," Judge George Brokaw commented. Then he instructed House to pay the $2.45 fare and the $6 costs in the case.

Rowley testified he hauled House from the terminal to the race track, expecting to be paid at the end of the ride.

"As soon as I got to the upper gate, before the cab was stopped, he jumped out and leaped over the fence and said: 'I'll see you later," Rowley testified. Rowley said he obtained House's name with police department co-operation to enable him to file the charge. When House was seated in a bar, an officer obtained his name by asking to see his identification, he said.

House was taken into custody House was taken into custody ters on Rowley's warrant.

Faubus To Go On TV Today In School Rift

Says Hopes Brighter For Segregation On U.S. Judge Action

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus says a federal judge's refusal to block a private school plan brightened chances for keeping segregation here.

He plans a televised speech tonight dealing with Saturday's referendum on the school dispute.

The referendum will decide whether Little Rock's four closed high schools reopen on an integrated basis.

Faubus shut the schools to avoid compliance with court-ordered integration. He wants the schools to operate as private and segregated institutions.

U.S. Dist. Judge John E. Miller, sitting at Fort Smith, Ark., Thursday declined to handle the private school issue.

He dismissed petitions of the Little Rock School Board and the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

The School Board had asked if it could legally lease its schools to a private corporation. The NAACP petitioned for an injunction to prevent any such leasing.

Judge Miller said he lacked jurisdiction to rule on the questions. He said it was a matter for a three-judge court.

Wiley Branton, attorney for the NAACP, said there was a possibility he might appeal to the U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis today.

Or, Branton said, he might sit back and wait. If any private school corporation didn't admit Negroes, he added, he might ask a court to put it under the Little Rock School Board's court-decreed program of gradual integration.

"You cannot put public facilities to private use and then discriminate against their use," Branton said. "Even if schools are leased to a private corporation, the law is well settled and we have no doubt we could get qualified Negroes in them."

The Justice Department gave notice that it would oppose a private school plan aimed at avoiding integration.

Faubus, obviously pleased by Judge Miller's refusal to rule, said: "The School Board asked for these instructions and the federal court has not stopped them from leasing the buildings. I think the situation looks very bright."

Faubus returned from the four-day Southern Governors Conference at Lexington, Ky. He was welcomed home by a group of about 25 teen-agers.

A spokesman for the Little Rock School Board said the board planned no further legal action until the referendum results are known.

Troops And Rebels Clash

Violence Shatters Algeria In De Gaulle Plan Vote

ALGIERS (AP)—Violence shattered an atmosphere already heavy with fear as voters in scattered parts of Algeria cast ballots today on Premier de Gaulle's proposed new constitution.

French officials reported at least six military clashes with rebels as voting began. Several rebel terrorist attacks occurred in Algerian cities.

At Setif, rebels sprayed rifle fire into a bar, killing a woman and injuring six other persons. Nearby, a French soldier was wounded by a rebel grenade. A Moslem was assassinated. Similar incidents were reported at Tlemcen and Peregaux.

The voters were given a yes-no choice on a document that makes no provision for Algeria itself. De Gaulle has withheld any indication what the future will be for Algeria under his Fifth Republic which the constitution will establish.

Moslems, who make up 90 per cent of Algeria's population, went to the polls in fear of the two forces which have been fighting over this North African territory for four years.

By participating in the three-day referendum, they risk the wrath of nationalist rebels seeking independence for Algeria. The rebels have demanded a boycott of the referendum.

But by exercising their legal right of abstention, Moslems run the more immediate risk of repression by French troops.

French military commanders have issued orders to their 500,000 men to "win the battle of the referendum." Rebels charge this means herding voters to the polls in trucks and making sure of a "yes" vote by force.

Army authorities called on observers to distinguish between military protection and escort by force. Polling is being conducted in different areas on the three days to simplify army protection of the 7,000 voting places, some mobile. The French said they feared rebel attacks on the polling places.

One French officer, contending that Western civilization in Algeria depended on approval of the constitution, said: "You will easily find soldiers who push Moslems around. But when you see this, you should remember there are thousands of other Moslems who are not pushed around."

A Moslem intellectual commented, "There are areas where everything will be perfectly legal. But there are areas where threats and pressure will undoubtedly be used."

Some French officers predicted the rebels would try a spectacular move during the voting. A military spokesman said four days ago the rebels were massing combat units in Tunisia, apparently planning to smash across the frontier.

As balloting began, however, the French high command reported "absolutely no activity" in the Tunisian frontier area.

The approximately one million European settlers in Algeria favor the constitution in the belief it will preserve French rule here. On the other hand, some Socialists in France favor it as setting up a strong enough French government to grant at least limited Algerian independence despite settler and army opposition.

Voting on the constitution in France will take place Sunday.

Heads Into Weekend Talks

UAW Warns GM Members On Picket Line Violence

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers sternly warned its General Motors members today to avoid picket line incidents while it headed into an intensive weekend bargaining session with a strike deadline only four days away.

Two minor outbreaks were reported at GM plants in the Detroit area Thursday. Picket lines ringed 12 GM plants across the nation, idling 40,000 workers.

UAW President Walter Reuther took personal command of the union negotiating team today.

GM, biggest of the auto makers and with 250,000 UAW members among its 325,000-man work force, gave no indication it planned to sweeten its offer of a three-year contract with concessions almost identical to those on which Ford and the UAW settled Sept. 17.

Chrysler, which like GM has not settled with the UAW, had over 26,000 workers idle in local walkouts. Ford reported nearly 12,000 still out in disputes over local work conditions.

The seriousness of the work stoppages was emphasized when Chrysler announced it had postponed public introduction of all but one of its 1959 models because of what the firm called "the erratic labor situation."

The most serious incident occurred at the Detroit Cadillac plant, where more than 8,500 workers stayed off the jobs with several hundred forming picket lines. The violence developed when Dr. Douglas J. Wood, Cadillac medical director, attempted to drive out of the executives' parking lot.

GM spokesmen said more than 150 pickets thronged about Wood's car, kicked in the side panels and smashed the windshield and side windows. The doctor, who was uninjured, backed into the parking lot again and later left in a taxicab by a side entrance.

Ike's Hoping Shut Schools Soon Reopen

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower says the closing of some schools to avoid integration has dealt a material setback to "a fundamental human right—the right to a public education."

Eisenhower also said Thursday such school closings in Virginia and Arkansas have set back progress toward achieving the "ideal of the equality of man."

"I fervently hope that soon the schools will reopen and that progress toward our goal will resume," the President added in a letter to J. Albert Rolston, head of a group working to reopen schools in Charlottesville, Va.

Virginia's Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. commented that he wished Eisenhower had "considered the disastrous consequences of the tragic situation' before the Supreme Court ruled. The federal government supported arguments for integration before the court.

Eisenhower's letter was in reply to a telegram sent by Rolston seeking an expression from Eisenhower.

Dulles Says 'No Retreat' On Formosa

Declares Red China Aided By Russia Is Threatening U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles conferred with top Western diplomats today after serving notice that the United States will "make no retreat in the face of force" on Formosa.

In a speech before the Far East-American Council of Commerce and Industry in New York Thursday night, Dulles charged that Red China—aided by Soviet arms, supplies, and moral support — is "threatening war against us in the Formosa area."

"The United States is not prepared to retreat in the face of armed force," he declared. But, he added, "our position is otherwise flexible."

Dulles said the United States welcomed Peiping's willingness to resume the U.S.-Red Chinese talks and was prepared, "in accord with our United Nations Charter obligation, to settle the dispute by peaceful means."

"We believe that the Soviet Union, if it wanted to see a peaceful solution, could make that possible," he said.

The secretary spoke amid indications that the gloom into which the Formosa crisis had plunged Washington was lifting slightly.

Spirits were bolstered by a Pentagon estimate that Nationalist China is strong enough to hurl back any Red Chinese invasion attempt against Quemoy without U.S. armed help.

There was a feeling in U.N. circles that the Reds were easing their pressure in Formosa — perhaps in the face of a solid Western front.

Both Britain and France joined in supporting American efforts to get a cease-fire in the crisis.

The Warsaw talks continued to drag on despite reports of deadlock.

U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam told newsmen in the Polish capital he would meet again next Tuesday with the Red Chinese envoy, Wang Ping-nan.

The main fear at this stage appeared to be that Peiping is not as experienced at international fencing as Moscow, and might accidentally step over the brink.

Dulles, after declaring the United States was firmly set not to retreat in the face of force, described the United States' "otherwise flexible" position in these words:

"We would find acceptable any arrangement which, on the one hand, did not involve surrender to force or the threat of force, and on the other hand, eliminated from the situation features that could reasonably be regarded as provocative or which were, to use President Eisenhower's words, 'a thorn in the side of peace.'"

Conceding that the Nationalist-held offshore islands were not "an ideal defensive position," he compared the situation with the 1948 Berlin blockade.

"Berlin is militarily indefensible," he said, but the United States and its allies "risked war, and stand committed today to risk war rather than surrender Berlin."

Wellsville Post Office To Stay On Fast Time

E. J. Evans, Wellsville postmaster, said today the Post Office will continue to operate on Daylight Saving Time until Oct. 26.

Those who wish their mail to make the principal daily dispatch must have it in by 3 p. m. (EST) or 4 p. m. (DST), he said.

This is necessary, he said, because mail dispatches and receipts will be on Daylight Saving Time.

Wellsville community goes back to Eastern Standard Time at 2 a. m. Sunday.

Violence Shatters Algeria In De Gaulle Plan Vote

ALGIERS (AP)—Violence shattered an atmosphere already heavy with fear as voters in scattered parts of Algeria cast ballots today on Premier de Gaulle's proposed new constitution.

French officials reported at least six military clashes with rebels as voting began. Several rebel terrorist attacks occurred in Algerian cities.

At Setif, rebels sprayed rifle fire into a bar, killing a woman and injuring six other persons. Nearby, a French soldier was wounded by a rebel grenade. A Moslem was assassinated. Similar incidents were reported at Tlemcen and Peregaux.

The voters were given a yes-no choice on a document that makes no provision for Algeria itself. De Gaulle has withheld any indication what the future will be for Algeria under his Fifth Republic which the constitution will establish.

Moslems, who make up 90 per cent of Algeria's population, went to the polls in fear of the two forces which have been fighting over this North African territory for four years.

By participating in the three-day referendum, they risk the wrath of nationalist rebels seeking independence for Algeria. The rebels have demanded a boycott of the referendum.

But by exercising their legal right of abstention, Moslems run the more immediate risk of repression by French troops.

French military commanders have issued orders to their 500,000 men to "win the battle of the referendum." Rebels charge this means herding voters to the polls in trucks and making sure of a "yes" vote by force.

Army authorities called on observers to distinguish between military protection and escort by force. Polling is being conducted in different areas on the three days to simplify army protection of the 7,000 voting places, some mobile. The French said they feared rebel attacks on the polling places.

One French officer, contending that Western civilization in Algeria depended on approval of the constitution, said: "You will easily find soldiers who push Moslems around. But when you see this, you should remember there are thousands of other Moslems who are not pushed around."

A Moslem intellectual commented, "There are areas where everything will be perfectly legal. But there are areas where threats and pressure will undoubtedly be used."

Some French officers predicted the rebels would try a spectacular move during the voting. A military spokesman said four days ago the rebels were massing combat units in Tunisia, apparently planning to smash across the frontier.

As balloting began, however, the French high command reported "absolutely no activity" in the Tunisian frontier area.

The approximately one million European settlers in Algeria favor the constitution in the belief it will preserve French rule here. On the other hand, some Socialists in France favor it as setting up a strong enough French government to grant at least limited Algerian independence despite settler and army opposition.

Voting on the constitution in France will take place Sunday.

Heads Into Weekend Talks

UAW Warns GM Members On Picket Line Violence

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers sternly warned its General Motors members today to avoid picket line incidents while it headed into an intensive weekend bargaining session with a strike deadline only four days away.

Two minor outbreaks were reported at GM plants in the Detroit area Thursday. Picket lines ringed 12 GM plants across the nation, idling 40,000 workers.

UAW President Walter Reuther took personal command of the union negotiating team today.

GM, biggest of the auto makers and with 250,000 UAW members among its 325,000-man work force, gave no indication it planned to sweeten its offer of a three-year contract with concessions almost identical to those on which Ford and the UAW settled Sept. 17.

Chrysler, which like GM has not settled with the UAW, had over 26,000 workers idle in local walkouts. Ford reported nearly 12,000 still out in disputes over local work conditions.

The seriousness of the work stoppages was emphasized when Chrysler announced it had postponed public introduction of all but one of its 1959 models because of what the firm called "the erratic labor situation."

The most serious incident occurred at the Detroit Cadillac plant, where more than 8,500 workers stayed off the jobs with several hundred forming picket lines. The violence developed when Dr. Douglas J. Wood, Cadillac medical director, attempted to drive out of the executives' parking lot.

GM spokesmen said more than 150 pickets thronged about Wood's car, kicked in the side panels and smashed the windshield and side windows. The doctor, who was uninjured, backed into the parking lot again and later left in a taxicab by a side entrance.

Ike's Hoping Shut Schools Soon Reopen

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower says the closing of some schools to avoid integration has dealt a material setback to "a fundamental human right—the right to a public education."

Eisenhower also said Thursday such school closings in Virginia and Arkansas have set back progress toward achieving the "ideal of the equality of man."

"I fervently hope that soon the schools will reopen and that progress toward our goal will resume," the President added in a letter to J. Albert Rolston, head of a group working to reopen schools in Charlottesville, Va.

Virginia's Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. commented that he wished Eisenhower had "considered the disastrous consequences of the tragic situation' before the Supreme Court ruled. The federal government supported arguments for integration before the court.

Eisenhower's letter was in reply to a telegram sent by Rolston seeking an expression from Eisenhower.

Pair Strikes Agency At Closing Time

One Brandishes Gun Nervously In Foray At Hendershot Co.

A hunt fanned out across a three-state area today for two holdup men who took $160 from a second-floor insurance agency in the heart of downtown East Liverpool Thursday about 5 p. m., bound the manager and three employes with adhesive tape and then escaped through roadblocks set up throughout the district.

The two held up the C. W. Hendershot Insurance Agency in the Potters Savings & Loan Co. Building at Washington St. and Broadway, binding the wrists of C. W. Hendershot, 812 Bradshaw Ave., the operator, two women employes, Miss Margaret A. Baum of W. 7th St. and Mrs. Sarah L. Jenkins, 419 E. 4th St., and Glenn V. Wilson 1035 Vine St., an agent and Hendershot's son-in-law.

Only one of the bandits showed a gun — a .38- or .32 - caliber blue steel pistol. He was the younger of the pair, described as about 20 and very nervous — frequently waving the pistol and warning the holdup victims against outcries or attempts to resist.

His companion was about 30. Both men wore sunglasses as a disguise and brown work gloves to prevent the possibility of leaving a fingerprint. The gun-toter, about 5-feet-9, wore light colored clothing with a plaid shirt and black shoes.

The older man was described as about 6 feet tall, of medium build, wearing dark blue trousers, and brown or tan tennis shoes. He had a distinctively large mouth, the holdup victims said.

The two entered the insurance agency office and shut the door just at closing time—at 5 or 5:05. Hendershot was sitting at the desk in his private office, studying a large map.

"The first indication I had of a holdup was when I looked up and the man said: 'Come out here'," he related. "At first I thought it was some sort of a joke, but I saw he had a gun in his hand."

"When I went into the other office, he said: 'This is a stickup' and told me to stand by the door. He called the two girls out of their office and said: 'Now we want all the money'."

Hendershot related that he enquired if the men wanted only cash, not checks, and one replied: "Only cash." Then he instructed the women to remove the money from the unlocked safe, where it had been placed ready for closing time.

The bandits were handed $148.72 in office receipts. Then they spotted the petty cash in the bottom of the safe and asked for it also. The petty cash also was surrendered—$12.23. One of the men placed the money in a large manila envelope which he carried, except to put some of the change in his pockets.

Then the bandits ordered Hen-

Holdup

dershot and Mrs. Jenkins into the adjoining bookkeeping room, where they bound their wrists with adhesive tape, first seating Hendershot in a chair. At first they also ordered Miss Baum into the next room, but Hendershot remonstrated that she was not in good health, so they permitted her to remain in the main office.

Told to sit down, Miss Baum sat on the floor and her wrists also were bound.

Spotting the telephone in the main office, one of the bandits unscrewed the cap from the receiver, removed part of the mechanism, and then put the telephone back together. He overlooked the telephone in Hendershot's office, however.

While the robbery was in progress, Wilson arrived at the office. Finding the door locked but noting lights inside, he used his own key to enter. When he walked in the bandits also menaced him with the gun, removed him to the bookkeeping room and tied his wrists.

Before the pair left, the gun-toter waved his pistol again and warned the holdup victims not to move until the bandits had a chance to make their getaway. Repeatedly during the holdup he brandished the pistol and made remarks like: "Behave and you won't be killed." Hendershot said he reassured the man that no one would put up a fight or cry out, adding that the loss would be covered by insurance.

As soon as the pair left, Miss Baum crawled along the floor to Hendershot's office and — with her hands still taped — dialed the police department to report the stickup. Meanwhile, Hendershot obtained a pair of shears and cut Mrs. Jenkins loose, despite the tape binding his hands. Then she freed him and Wilson.

Although an elevator serves the building, the two men ascended by a stairway. Police were unable to locate anyone who saw them descend the stairs or leave the building.

Police then thought the pair might have hidden on one of the upper floors. A thorough search showed no trace of them, however.

There is only one entrance to the upper floors of the building—via a doorway that leads onto Broadway. Officers also searched the basement, although there was little possibility the men could have hidden there. The only access to the cellar is by way of the elevator or through a doorway which is kept locked.

The assumption was that the pair fled in an auto parked nearby. Immediately after receiving word of the holdup, police rushed men to the scene and alerted the Columbiana County and Hancock County sheriff's offices and the Midland, Wellsville and Chester police departments to help set up roadblocks.

Shortly after the holdup, two men were taken into custody on suspicion charges at Chester. All the holdup victims said positively that they were not the pair that invaded the insurance agency.

It was the first armed robbery in East Liverpool since mid-June, when a lone bandit obtained about $2,500 from a cashier in Branson's Meat Market on Walnut St.

2 Men Questioned On Possession Of Coins

Two 21-year-old men believed from Unionport, Pa., apparently cleared of any connection with the East Liverpool holdup, were being questioned today at New Cumberland about $30 in pennies and dimes found on them when arrested at Chester as suspects in the insurance office case.

Patrolman Harold Davis and Special Officer Audley Campbell took the pair into custody Thursday night at Herche's Drugstore where they were apparently waiting for a bus to Pittsburgh after their car broke down on the Route 30 hill in Chester.

Witnesses told police the men had the car towed in by the Ludovici Garage, then walked through the town, one carrying a battered suitcase.

They stopped at the Citizen's Drugstore and asked for bus tickets to Pittsburgh and were directed to the other drugstore near 3rd St. Meanwhile, someone advised Patrolman Davis and Officer Campbell, who were directing traffic, of the suspicious nature of the two men.

Davis and Campbell began checking business houses along Carolina Ave. and were also directed to the Herche Drugstore. There they found the men, and searched them for guns, finding the small change.

The two were taken to the City Hall, and employes of the insurance agency were called but found no resemblance to the holdup pair. Later Hancock County sheriff's deputies took the two to New Cumberland where the questioning is continuing.

Two 21-year-old men believed from Unionport, Pa., apparently cleared of any connection with the East Liverpool holdup, were being questioned today at New Cumberland about $30 in pennies and dimes found on them when arrested at Chester as suspects in the insurance office case.

Patrolman Harold Davis and Special Officer Audley Campbell took the pair into custody Thursday night at Herche's Drugstore where they were apparently waiting for a bus to Pittsburgh after their car broke down on the Route 30 hill in Chester.

Witnesses told police the men had the car towed in by the Ludovici Garage, then walked through the town, one carrying a battered suitcase.

They stopped at the Citizen's Drugstore and asked for bus tickets to Pittsburgh and were directed to the other drugstore near 3rd St. Meanwhile, someone advised Patrolman Davis and Officer Campbell, who were directing traffic, of the suspicious nature of the two men.

Davis and Campbell began checking business houses along Carolina Ave. and were also directed to the Herche Drugstore. There they found the men, and searched them for guns, finding the small change.

The two were taken to the City Hall, and employes of the insurance agency were called but found no resemblance to the holdup pair. Later Hancock County sheriff's deputies took the two to New Cumberland where the questioning is continuing.

Queen's Selection Set Tonight For Fete At Irondale

IRONDALE—Naming of a queen will highlight tonights activities of the community's 18th annual homecoming observance which began Thursday night with a square dance in the high school auditorium. Some 200 attended.

A homecoming queen will be named during a home talent and fashion show tonight at 8 in the school auditorium. Contestants include Elaine Nightingale, a blonde, and Sue McGivern and Lindis Olden, brunettes.

The girl who draws an odd-color rose from a wrapped bouquet will be named queen of the celebration and will be crowned at half-time of the Irondale-Mount Pleasant football game scheduled for 2:30 Saturday afternoon at Memorial Field. The queen will also receive a gift from the captain of the high school's football team. She will be crowned by Miss Peggy Perkins, last year's queen.

Tonight's talent show will include a quartet from Steubenville and acts by local residents. Ruth Frampton, Thelma Rimco, Catherine Russell, Stanley Frampton and Harry Swartzlander are chairmen.

Saturday's program besides the football game includes a pet parade and races, penny scrambles and other events for children at 9:30 a. m. at Memorial Field. A turkey dinner will be served in the high school from 5 to 7 p. m. following the football game.

A round dance is scheduled tomorrow from 9 to midnight in the school with Glenn Ross providing the music. Joint comumunity worship services will be held Sunday at 11 a. m. in the Methodist Church.

The Not-So-New Look

One of the most important events in United States foreign affairs this week received virtually no publicity. It was planned that way.

The foreign ministers of 21 Latin American countries spent a day and a half in Washington talking informally with Secretary of State Dulles about inter-American relations. The sessions were private, but in statements afterward the visitors expressed pleasure and gratitude at the "new look" in U.S. policy toward its neighbors to the south.

Except for some particulars, the look was not really as new as it seemed. The U.S. always has been eager for friendship with Latin America. The trouble has been that as obligations elsewhere in the world demanded its urgent attention, the U.S. has tended sometimes to take that friendship for granted.

The deteriorating effect of such a lapse was shockingly manifested last spring when Vice President Nixon, on a "goodwill tour," was subjected to some serious indignities in Peru and Venezuela. Although offended and dismayed by his reception, the vice president skipped possible recriminations after his return and instead strongly urged an immediate reappraisal of U.S. policy toward the Latins to see what had gone sour.

He was backed up later by Milton Eisenhower, who made a tour of his own and advised that Washington "must shore up its policies and programs with respect to Latin America."

The impetus for doing just that was provided by Brazilian President Juscelino Kubitschek, whose proposal for a summit conference among American states led to this week's meeting of foreign ministers.

The primary concrete shift in the U.S. position was agreement to consider a regional bank for economic development, something the Latin nations have sought for a long time but which Washington has consistently opposed. Mr. Dulles also endorsed discussions on international comodity agreements and emergency balance-of-payments loans by the Export-Import bank.

Other than that, the conversations were devoted chiefly to re-emphasizing phases of inter-American relations which have always been a part of U.S. policy. President Eisenhower himself attended a luncheon meeting to assure the guests that his administration is as deeply concerned as ever for their nations' welfare.

The message hit the mark. The ministers went away happy. Even if the U.S. attitude was not as new as they imagined, they were once more convinced Washington is a big brother and not a big snob.

The importance of this, aside from such considerations as hemispheric security and economic interdependence, was amply illustrated in the United Nations General Assembly this week when the Latin Americans were the only single bloc of nations that lined up solidly behind the U.S. in its fight to bar Red China.

Men Of Responsibility

The Southern Governors Conference this year made history two ways.

First, the integration issue was brought out into the open and debated. Second, no agreement was reached on a resolution expressing the group's views on the subject.

So loud and overbearing have been the politico - proponents of "massive resistance at any cost" as they went about feeding the fires of hate and disorder that it began to seem there was no other tune in Dixie.

The governors conference was a reminder, however, that there are responsible leaders in the South who still stand for the rule of law and intelligent citizenship. More encouraging yet is the realization that if such men hold high public office, they obviously do not stand alone, entirely apart from the electorate.

Perhaps the most credit for the meeting's success on this score belongs to Gov. LeRoy Collins of Florida, who, as chairman, abandoned the tradition of banality in his keynote speech to set the stage for open argument and opposing resolutions. He was backed up principally by Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia, who sided with him completely, and Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland, who disagreed with his specific program for peaceable integration but took an equally forthright stand in favor of obeying the law of the land.

The position of these men and the more passive supporters among their colleagues transcends the narrow limits of regional chauvinism and recognizes the significance of the desegregation problem in the whole of American democracy. Gov. Collins specifically warned that the Faubus - Almond pattern of integration conflict could well mean national catastrophe if it continues.

Such men recognize that emotion - stirring half-truths may be an expedient way to win votes, but the dissension they sow will bear fruit long after the term of office is completed. They know that defiance of the law of the land strikes a blow, not for states rights, but for anarchy. They perceive the critical effect of closing public schools on the future of this nation in an age when intelligence and skill may well determine whether it survives or not. They recoil at the first the Faubuses and Almonds feed into the Communist propaganda mill.

The forces of law and order, reason and responsibility do exist in the South. It is indeed encouraging to be reminded that they have not been completely silenced by the self-seeking antagonists.

Down, But Not Out

The razing of the old upright brick kilns along the River Rd. could mean many things to many people.

To some, the destruction must have brought back pleasant memories of the pottery prosperity that was East Liverpool's when those same kilns were built. To others, it must have been another ironic symbol of what they feel is the continuing decline of the dinnerware industry.

If the latter, we believe their thinking could be wrong. There's no question but that the potteries "have been hurting," but dire predictions of the demise of the industry appear, as Mark Twain said of the reports of his death, "greatly exaggerated."

The razing of the kilns, for industrial expansion, points instead to continued development of the city as a river port. And—if viewed realistically rather than in a nostalgic vein — the crumbling brick served to underscore experiments by some district potteries with a new durable dinnerware which could be part of the answer to foreign competition and to plastics.

The potteries appear to be pulling out of the summer doldrums and are looking toward fall production spurred by the prospects for the new type of ware.

Instead of lamenting the toppling of the kilns, we prefer to applaud labor and management for striving for progress in an age-old industry. Their delving into new fields is one of the more encouraging signs in our industrial picture.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Determined to interview the two candidates for governor of New York, Averell ("Huck Finn") Harriman and Nelson ("Shoeless Joe") Rockefeller, both of whom have come up in the barefoot boy tradition, we contacted them the other day.

Mr. Harriman was sawing wood outside his log cabin in the desolate stony fields of Arden Hollow.

We tracked down Mr. Rockefeller plowing his small potato patch over in the East Side of Seal Harbor.

"Excuse my looks," said Ave. "I've been painting the shack and have only one pair of overalls."

"You look fit," we said.

"Hard work from boyhood," he answered. "When I was a child my father was down to his last four railroads. I had to work my way through Yale counting money."

"What about your days as a shoeshine boy?" we asked.

"They were not bad, but it was rough carrying that shoeshine box on a polo pony," he said.

Q. You were born on the other side of the tracks, of course?

A. The family was so surrounded by rails I never was sure. You might say I was born on the other side of another railroad's other side.

Q. You have known the bitter battle to keep the wolf from the door?

A. Yes, and with taxes where they are it is getting tougher and tougher.

CONTACTING MR. ROCKEFELLER, the Man With the Hoe it went like this:

Q. How are things?

A. Oh, I manage to scrape along somehow.

Q. What is your chief platform plank?

A. The full dinner pail. I know what it to go down to the brass factory with a cruller and a bottle of cold coffee.

Q. You will oppose the vested interest?

A. Yes. They're nice fellows but I don't like too much money in the hands of public servants.

Q. How did you manage to get an education?

A. I had to peddle petroleum from door to door and get subscriptions to additives.

Q. Did you ever have a paper route?

A. Yes indeed. It was when Dad was broke and I went to the Yukon in my bare feet to help.

We said we were sorry to take his time.

"That's okay. I was just taking a coffee break anyhow," he replied.

"It should be a colorful election. May the best Horatio Alger win," we said, happy to see two fine boys getting a break.

Art Carney in most roles is a top comedian but as Elwood P. Dowd, in "Harvey" even the rabbit must have known he was not the type. Whimsy escaped him. He was the pert, alert man-about-town, not the dreamy, calm fellow from a Never-Never-Land saloon. You felt Dowd had not been out with a rabbit, but with Ralph Cramden and fellow bowlers.

Jackie Gleason now has a country estate in Peekskill. "Awaywego Manor," perhaps.

H. K. L. sends this verse on Sherman Adams:

> Little rugs on lend-lease,
> One vicuna coat
> Make a public servant
> Something of a "goat."

Back home stuff: Death of Frederick Brewster, one of nation's little known multi-millionaires, brings back boyhood memories of his baronial estate out Whitney Ave., surrounded by high fortress-like granite walls. How it used to fill us with awe. Brewster was the town's richest man and was one of the first citizens to have an automobile.

Ike, Truman Slate Get-Together

By Victor Riesel

With Sherman Adams out, Harry Truman soon will be in the White House — as a guest, of course. As a friendly consultant, and long before it gets too cold for the folks to sit on that porch.

Victor Riesel

Arrangements for the old tenant to visit the premises are about set. President Eisenhower will play genial host — unless the hard-bitten professional politicians on both sides talk both men out of this great public display of national unity.

Mr. Truman's visit to his one-time chief of staff was conjured up some weeks ago by close friends of President Eisenhower.

The report is they had to wait until Adams, who hates Mr. Truman, was not right at the President's shoulder. That took some doing. But with Adams gradually easing himself out of the White House these past weeks, these friends of the President were able to get his ear.

They talked long and hard about the international crisis and the need for domestic unity across the land.

TREADING EASILY on Mr. Eisenhower's brittle temper at first, this group said that there could be no greater sign of national unity than to ask the former President to the White House for a long chat. From this could come a common statement to the people that the Chinese crisis demanded a unified land.

Mr. Eisenhower did not snort at this, at all. He was, in fact, delighted. But he is ever the strategist. He asked what assurances he had that such an invitation would not be snubbed.

Emissaries quietly approached Mr. Truman. He indicated that he'd be glad to serve his country.

There was swift assurance on both sides that the session would not be political — simply a friendly meeting between two national leaders with a common cause.

Mr. Truman said he'd go, but that he reserved the right to plunge into the congressional campaign in his own free - swinging fashion.

The invitation was issued. At this writing, the specific date has not been set.

Certainly the invitation has not blunted Mr. Truman's touch. He went right out to the United Steelworkers Union convention and hung everything on the Republicans except the Icelandic fishing war.

WITH THE ICY New Englander out of the White House Mr. Eisenhower may find it easier to melt the personal frigidity between himself and the nation's top labor leaders.

So bitter has been labor's attitude toward the President that at the recent steelworkers' convention, hundreds of the 3,500 delegates booed the simple mention of his name.

This reflected their belief that the White House had a sharp axe out for them — and that Sherman Adams was honing and swinging it. That's what they believe, make no mistake about that.

Especially was there anger over the President's veto of the bill which would have supplied money for redevelopment of distressed areas.

The labor people were watching that one like a cobra eying a flute at an Indian picnic. They knew that the Bureau of the Budget was opposed to spending the 250 million dollars provided in the measure.

The labor leaders knew, too, of the final session in the White House on Saturday, Sept. 6, at which Mr. Eisenhower had his advisers face U.S. Labor Secretary James Mitchell. This Cabinet member was the only one who argued for passage of the aid bill.

MITCHELL WAS overridden by the others — including Sherman Adams. Had the assistant to the President swung his weight, Mr. Eisenhower would have signed the bill. Millions of dollars would have flowed into many depressed areas — including New England textile towns, hard hit by many economic factors these days.

Labor chiefs pointed out that Adams, of all people, should have pushed for the bill, since he is a New Englander and knows the area's problems.

The bill was vetoed Saturday afternoon. Saturday night, union chiefs raised money to hit the air in Maine with a bitter attack. That didn't exactly help the Maine Republicans or Sherman Adams' standing.

Furthermore, the labor leaders have, for some time, felt that it was impossible for them to get to the President. Adams kept them away. For the most part they had to deal with Adams' assistant, Max Rabb.

That seldom got action, because Adams always was the buffer. Watch now for a White House drive to bring the angered ones within the gates.

Letters To The Editor

There have been so many school bus accidents that I think we parents should do something about it.

The change in time will do very little to remedy the situation because often the fog does not lift until long after school has taken up.

I don't know about other routes, but I do know that one out Dresden Ave. to the Westfield Rd. In the 13 years since I have been sending my children on these buses they used a good loading and unloading spot where the buses pulled off the highway. This year they have made a dangerous change.

Oh I know nothing has happened yet — and I pray to God it never does — but who can tell what may happen on a foggy morning. For years the bus pulled off the highway at the Schmidt grocery store. Now it does not. The children must wait there until the bus goes out to the Westfield Rd. and comes back to stop in its own lane halfway around this bad bend.

The children must cross the other lane in front of the bus in order to get on. Now anyone familiar with this road knows that numerous accidents happen every year on this bend. The weeds on the hillside are too high to see even a school bus.

My suggestion is this: Why doesn't the bus go back to the old loading place at Schmidt's, with the bus going out, or if they insist on stopping on the return trip, using the strip of road that runs at the edge of the highway after you get around the bend.

This strip of ground is smooth and it is wider than the bus and many times longer. And the best part of it is that it also is off the highway. In either place there would be no worry of being struck from behind.

From what I gather, the Junior High students are picked up from the south side of the road on this strip of ground I mentioned before. Then why not the smaller ones who have no sense of danger?

Mr. Allison's idea of putting bells on the buses is an unusual idea, but a very sound one.

D. RANDOLPH
1100 Dresden Ave.

Another school bus has been rammed in a heavy fog — this time near Lisbon, with no one seriously injured. Who will be next?

As long as we keep Daylight Saving Time in the fall months, we will not be free of this danger.

It has been recommended by the East Liverpool Board of Education, Supt. Betts, Asst. Supt. Blair, the County Board of Education and the East Palestine Ministerial Association that daylight time end as soon as possible.

Such a strong recommendation should have been met with immediate action by East Liverpool City Council. But what happened?

Council "will set up the machinery at its next regular meeting Oct. 6 to make a survey of all communities of the area." In effect, they are using the old political hocus-pocus of sending the matter to committee. It isn't politically expedient to come out with a straight forward "no" in the face of these strong recommendations even though really they want no change.

May I point out that East Liverpool will not be a "slow time island in the center of a fast time area." Wellsville ends Daylight Time Sept. 28 this year as in other years. Its citizens have not found it too inconvenient to be out of step.

Surely the citizens of East Liverpool value the health and safety of their children as much as the citizens of Wellsville.

New View Of Equality

By David Lawrence

School Standards Need Protection

Ten years ago — before the integration problem had become as acute as it is today — this correspondent had an interesting discussion about the question with the principal of a high school in a large city in the north.

David Lawrence

"How is the mixing of races in the school working out?" I asked him.

"Fine," he replied.

"Do the colored girls dance with white boys in social functions after school?"

"No," he said, "they stay apart and for the most part keep to themselves in separate groups socially."

"Is there any friction in the classrooms?"

"No."

"Then you do not have any trouble?"

"Well, I wouldn't say that. If, for instance, we award a prize and there is any suspicion that we have discriminated against the colored pupil, we will hear from it."

"Then, on the whole, it is working out all right?"

"Yes, but you see we have only one - third colored to two - thirds white." He paused and then added:

"I'll tell you frankly I wouldn't want to be principal of this same high school if it were two-thirds colored and one-third white."

THE PRINCIPAL didn't elaborate. This writer couldn't help thinking today of that conversation upon reading the results of a poll taken in the last few weeks in the North as well as in the South by Dr. George Gallup of the American Institute of Public Opinion.

It showed differing answers dependent on the proportion of colored pupils to be enrolled in a public school. Thus, when the inquiry was whether the person interviewed would have any objection to sending his or her children to a public school where "a few of the children are colored," the answer in the North was that 86 per cent would not object.

When the question asked of the same people was whether there would be objection if half the children were colored, the objecting figure rose to 39 per cent.

When the third question was asked — whether there would be objection if more than half were colored — the objecting percentage in the North rose to 58 per cent, while 6 per cent expressed no opinion. This is a clear majority against such integration.

Naturally, in the South the percentages of objectors went from 72 to 81 to 84, respectively, in answering the same three questions. For in many parts of the South the colored children already outnumber the white by a considerable margin and there seems no doubt that, if "integration" were strictly enforced, there would be many schools with a predominance of colored pupils.

It is significant that the Gallup pollsters reported that "in explaining objections to integration, many persons added that it was not so much a racial matter but a fear the educational standard of their school would be lowered."

THERE IS ALREADY evidence that, in some heavily integrated schools in the North, the educational standards have lagged. This is explained by some educators as due to the lack of educational background of the colored parents and their long residence in a low-income environment.

There seems to be no evidence as yet as to how many years it will take to overcome this handicap.

It would not be surprising, therefore, to see a court case some day in which the words of the Supreme Court of the United States will be turned back on the justices who, in the 1954 decision, ruled that "segregation of children in the public schools solely on the basis of race, even though the physical facilities and other 'tangible' factors may be equal, deprive the children of the minority group of equal educational opportunities."

The argument may well be heard that the discrimination in a predominantly Negro school is against the new minority — the white children — who are deprived of the high standards of education they once enjoyed.

The Supreme Court's decision, literally interpreted, means that, even though there are not enough Negro children in a school district to equalize the proportions, something must be done — by transfers and by the city's payment of bus fares — to obtain "equal educational opportunities" for every Negro child. This course is being advocated by Negro groups in New York City.

THE COURT'S decision approved a finding that segregation has a tendency "to retard the educational and mental development of Negro children."

This plainly puts upon the federal courts the responsibility of being concerned someday about the retardation of the "educational and mental development" of white children, too.

Long before there is a 50-50 "integration," the parents of white children will be demanding from the "supreme school board" in Washington "equal" benefits so that the white children may obtain as good an education as they were getting in the same schools before the 1954 decision was proclaimed as "the law of the land."

These issues may seem only academic to the wealthy parents who can afford to send their children to private schools or the public schools in neighborhoods where there is virtually no colored population. Will the 14th Amendment someday, however, be construed to mean that wealth must be redistributed so that it will be "equal?"

Does it create a "sense of inferiority" not to have as much money as someone else, especially where education for one's children is involved?

Plainly there are still some big gaps in the doctrine of "equal protection of the law" — if "intangible" factors are as important as they seem to be regarded by the Supreme Court.

Be Sure To Get The Facts

By Mrs. Richard H. Bauer

(Editor's Note: Some of T.T.'s readers have written vacation columns for him again this year. Today's essayist is a housewife.)

A popular comedienne who used to appear on a nationally known radio show was asked if she believed in exercising her franchise. Her emphatic reply, "I certainly do. There is nothing I hate worse than a flabby franchise!" epitomizes the attitude of a good many American citizens.

On the other hand, there is a regrettably high percentage of Americans who loudly proclaim the democratic way of life but are woefully lazy about exercising the precious right of the franchise.

It is obvious in many places that citizens should be exercising their franchise like mad, not only in voting but in literally hundreds of ways; ways which keep the rights and privileges and responsibilities of our citizenship in good, firm and flexible working order.

Have you ever really looked around your town to see how city and county governments worked and where they might be improved? What do you know, for instance, about your city departments, your welfare agencies, your water program?

What about sewage disposal methods where you live? Are they causing a bad case of municipal halitosis? Are you living in a community where concerted action is imperative to raise teachers' inadequate salaries in your public schools; where citizens should be supporting efforts to improve recreational facilities for children, youth and adults?

Action doesn't end, moreover, when a particular problem is temporarily solved. Good government is composed of a lot of little things, and one of the most useful is a keen eye on the public agencies in the community. As one wise person has said, "Bad politicians are elected by good people who do not vote."

Our responsible citizenship can no longer be confined just to our own community, our state, or even our own nation. The world has suddenly become a neighborhood. What happens in the Middle East, for example, affects our country's fortune—and that means yours and mine.

The current Middle East crisis represents a momentous testing of the United Nations, and even more, of the governments that set it up as a means through which they might deal with threats to the peace.

What U.N. programs exist in the Middle East designed to get at the underlying problems involved? Do they constitute substantial enough efforts to provide hope to the people that their goals can be achieved without resort to violence and revolution? Would a larger U.N. fund for economic development be desirable? What has been the extent of U.S. participation in these activities?

These are only examples of the kind of questions United States citizens ought to be asking if we are to assure ourselves that we are doing all we can to promote the maximum effectiveness of the instrument we helped to create—the United Nations.

To answer these questions citizens need facts. And nothing the civic and educational organizations and service clubs could do for United Nations Day in 1958 would be more useful than to make sure all the relevant facts are available to the people of their own communities . . . and are actually being put across to them.

The Not-So-New Look

One of the most important events in United States foreign affairs this week received virtually no publicity. It was planned that way.

The foreign ministers of 21 Latin American countries spent a day and a half in Washington talking informally with Secretary of State Dulles about inter-American relations. The sessions were private, but in statements afterward the visitors expressed pleasure and gratitude at the "new look" in U.S. policy toward its neighbors to the south.

Except for some particulars, the look was not really as new as it seemed. The U.S. always has been eager for friendship with Latin America. The trouble has been that as obligations elsewhere in the world demanded its urgent attention, the U.S. has tended sometimes to take that friendship for granted.

The deteriorating effect of such a lapse was shockingly manifested last spring when Vice President Nixon, on a "goodwill tour," was subjected to some serious indignities in Peru and Venezuela. Although offended and dismayed by his reception, the vice president skipped possible recriminations after his return and instead strongly urged an immediate reappraisal of U.S. policy toward the Latins to see what had gone sour.

He was backed up later by Milton Eisenhower, who made a tour of his own and advised that Washington "must shore up its policies and programs with respect to Latin America."

The impetus for doing just that was provided by Brazilian President Juscelino Kubitschek, whose proposal for a summit conference among American states led to this week's meeting of foreign ministers.

The primary concrete shift in the U.S. position was agreement to consider a regional bank for economic development, something the Latin nations have sought for a long time but which Washington has consistently opposed. Mr. Dulles also endorsed discussions on international comodity agreements and emergency balance-of-payments loans by the Export-Import bank.

Other than that, the conversations were devoted chiefly to re-emphasizing phases of inter-American relations which have always been a part of U.S. policy. President Eisenhower himself attended a luncheon meeting to assure the guests that his administration is as deeply concerned as ever for their nations' welfare.

The message hit the mark. The ministers went away happy. Even if the U.S. attitude was not as new as they imagined, they were once more convinced Washington is a big brother and not a big snob.

The importance of this, aside from such considerations as hemispheric security and economic interdependence, was amply illustrated in the United Nations General Assembly this week when the Latin Americans were the only single bloc of nations that lined up solidly behind the U.S. in its fight to bar Red China.

Men Of Responsibility

The Southern Governors Conference this year made history two ways.

First, the integration issue was brought out into the open and debated. Second, no agreement was reached on a resolution expressing the group's views on the subject.

So loud and overbearing have been the politico - proponents of "massive resistance at any cost" as they went about feeding the fires of hate and disorder that it began to seem there was no other tune in Dixie.

The governors conference was a reminder, however, that there are responsible leaders in the South who still stand for the rule of law and intelligent citizenship. More encouraging yet is the realization that if such men hold high public office, they obviously do not stand alone, entirely apart from the electorate.

Perhaps the most credit for the meeting's success on this score belongs to Gov. LeRoy Collins of Florida, who, as chairman, abandoned the tradition of banality in his keynote speech to set the stage for open argument and opposing resolutions. He was backed up principally by Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia, who sided with him completely, and Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland, who disagreed with his specific program for peaceable integration but took an equally forthright stand in favor of obeying the law of the land.

The position of these men and the more passive supporters among their colleagues transcends the narrow limits of regional chauvinism and recognizes the significance of the desegregation problem in the whole of American democracy. Gov. Collins specifically warned that the Faubus - Almond pattern of integration conflict could well mean national catastrophe if it continues.

Such men recognize that emotion - stirring half-truths may be an expedient way to win votes, but the dissension they sow will bear fruit long after the term of office is completed. They know that defiance of the law of the land strikes a blow, not for states rights, but for anarchy. They perceive the critical effect of closing public schools on the future of this nation in an age when intelligence and skill may well determine whether it survives or not. They recoil at the first the Faubuses and Almonds feed into the Communist propaganda mill.

The forces of law and order, reason and responsibility do exist in the South. It is indeed encouraging to be reminded that they have not been completely silenced by the self-seeking antagonists.

Down, But Not Out

The razing of the old upright brick kilns along the River Rd. could mean many things to many people.

To some, the destruction must have brought back pleasant memories of the pottery prosperity that was East Liverpool's when those same kilns were built. To others, it must have been another ironic symbol of what they feel is the continuing decline of the dinnerware industry.

If the latter, we believe their thinking could be wrong. There's no question but that the potteries "have been hurting," but dire predictions of the demise of the industry appear, as Mark Twain said of the reports of his death, "greatly exaggerated."

The razing of the kilns, for industrial expansion, points instead to continued development of the city as a river port. And—if viewed realistically rather than in a nostalgic vein — the crumbling brick served to underscore experiments by some district potteries with a new durable dinnerware which could be part of the answer to foreign competition and to plastics.

The potteries appear to be pulling out of the summer doldrums and are looking toward fall production spurred by the prospects for the new type of ware.

Instead of lamenting the toppling of the kilns, we prefer to applaud labor and management for striving for progress in an age-old industry. Their delving into new fields is one of the more encouraging signs in our industrial picture.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Determined to interview the two candidates for governor of New York, Averell ("Huck Finn") Harriman and Nelson ("Shoeless Joe") Rockefeller, both of whom have come up in the barefoot boy tradition, we contacted them the other day.

Mr. Harriman was sawing wood outside his log cabin in the desolate stony fields of Arden Hollow.

We tracked down Mr. Rockefeller plowing his small potato patch over in the East Side of Seal Harbor.

"Excuse my looks," said Ave. "I've been painting the shack and have only one pair of overalls."

"You look fit," we said.

"Hard work from boyhood," he answered. "When I was a child my father was down to his last four railroads. I had to work my way through Yale counting money."

"What about your days as a shoeshine boy?" we asked.

"They were not bad, but it was rough carrying that shoeshine box on a polo pony," he said.

Q. You were born on the other side of the tracks, of course?

A. The family was so surrounded by rails I never was sure. You might say I was born on the other side of another railroad's other side.

Q. You have known the bitter battle to keep the wolf from the door?

A. Yes, and with taxes where they are it is getting tougher and tougher.

CONTACTING MR. ROCKEFELLER, the Man With the Hoe it went like this:

Q. How are things?

A. Oh, I manage to scrape along somehow.

Q. What is your chief platform plank?

A. The full dinner pail. I know what it to go down to the brass factory with a cruller and a bottle of cold coffee.

Q. You will oppose the vested interest?

A. Yes. They're nice fellows but I don't like too much money in the hands of public servants.

Q. How did you manage to get an education?

A. I had to peddle petroleum from door to door and get subscriptions to additives.

Q. Did you ever have a paper route?

A. Yes indeed. It was when Dad was broke and I went to the Yukon in my bare feet to help.

We said we were sorry to take his time.

"That's okay. I was just taking a coffee break anyhow," he replied.

"It should be a colorful election. May the best Horatio Alger win," we said, happy to see two fine boys getting a break.

Art Carney in most roles is a top comedian but as Elwood P. Dowd, in "Harvey" even the rabbit must have known he was not the type. Whimsy escaped him. He was the pert, alert man-about-town, not the dreamy, calm fellow from a Never-Never-Land saloon. You felt Dowd had not been out with a rabbit, but with Ralph Cramden and fellow bowlers.

> Something of a "goat."

Back home stuff: Death of Frederick Brewster, one of nation's little known multi-millionaires, brings back boyhood memories of his baronial estate out Whitney Ave., surrounded by high fortress-like granite walls. How it used to fill us with awe. Brewster was the town's richest man and was one of the first citizens to have an automobile.

Ike, Truman Slate Get-Together

By Victor Riesel

With Sherman Adams out, Harry Truman soon will be in the White House — as a guest, of course. As a friendly consultant, and long before it gets too cold for the folks to sit on that porch.

Victor Riesel

Arrangements for the old tenant to visit the premises are about set. President Eisenhower will play genial host — unless the hard-bitten professional politicians on both sides talk both men out of this great public display of national unity.

Mr. Truman's visit to his one-time chief of staff was conjured up some weeks ago by close friends of President Eisenhower.

The report is they had to wait until Adams, who hates Mr. Truman, was not right at the President's shoulder. That took some doing. But with Adams gradually easing himself out of the White House these past weeks, these friends of the President were able to get his ear.

They talked long and hard about the international crisis and the need for domestic unity across the land.

TREADING EASILY on Mr. Eisenhower's brittle temper at first, this group said that there could be no greater sign of national unity than to ask the former President to the White House for a long chat. From this could come a common statement to the people that the Chinese crisis demanded a unified land.

Mr. Eisenhower did not snort at this, at all. He was, in fact, delighted. But he is ever the strategist. He asked what assurances he had that such an invitation would not be snubbed.

Emissaries quietly approached Mr. Truman. He indicated that he'd be glad to serve his country.

There was swift assurance on both sides that the session would not be political — simply a friendly meeting between two national leaders with a common cause.

Mr. Truman said he'd go, but that he reserved the right to plunge into the congressional campaign in his own free - swinging fashion.

The invitation was issued. At this writing, the specific date has not been set.

Certainly the invitation has not blunted Mr. Truman's touch. He went right out to the United Steelworkers Union convention and hung everything on the Republicans except the Icelandic fishing war.

WITH THE ICY New Englander out of the White House Mr. Eisenhower may find it easier to melt the personal frigidity between himself and the nation's top labor leaders.

So bitter has been labor's attitude toward the President that at the recent steelworkers' convention, hundreds of the 3,500 delegates booed the simple mention of his name.

This reflected their belief that the White House had a sharp axe out for them — and that Sherman Adams was honing and swinging it. That's what they believe, make no mistake about that.

Especially was there anger over the President's veto of the bill which would have supplied money for redevelopment of distressed areas.

The labor people were watching that one like a cobra eying a flute at an Indian picnic. They knew that the Bureau of the Budget was opposed to spending the 250 million dollars provided in the measure.

The labor leaders knew, too, of the final session in the White House on Saturday, Sept. 6, at which Mr. Eisenhower had his advisers face U.S. Labor Secretary James Mitchell. This Cabinet member was the only one who argued for passage of the aid bill.

MITCHELL WAS overridden by the others — including Sherman Adams. Had the assistant to the President swung his weight, Mr. Eisenhower would have signed the bill. Millions of dollars would have flowed into many depressed areas — including New England textile towns, hard hit by many economic factors these days.

Labor chiefs pointed out that Adams, of all people, should have pushed for the bill, since he is a New Englander and knows the area's problems.

The bill was vetoed Saturday afternoon. Saturday night, union chiefs raised money to hit the air in Maine with a bitter attack. That didn't exactly help the Maine Republicans or Sherman Adams' standing.

Furthermore, the labor leaders have, for some time, felt that it was impossible for them to get to the President. Adams kept them away. For the most part they had to deal with Adams' assistant, Max Rabb.

That seldom got action, because Adams always was the buffer. Watch now for a White House drive to bring the angered ones within the gates.

Letters To The Editor

There have been so many school bus accidents that I think we parents should do something about it.

The change in time will do very little to remedy the situation because often the fog does not lift until long after school has taken up.

I don't know about other routes, but I do know that one out Dresden Ave. to the Westfield Rd. In the 13 years since I have been sending my children on these buses they used a good loading and unloading spot where the buses pulled off the highway. This year they have made a dangerous change.

Oh I know nothing has happened yet — and I pray to God it never does — but who can tell what may happen on a foggy morning. For years the bus pulled off the highway at the Schmidt grocery store. Now it does not. The children must wait there until the bus goes out to the Westfield Rd. and comes back to stop in its own lane halfway around this bad bend.

The children must cross the other lane in front of the bus in order to get on. Now anyone familiar with this road knows that numerous accidents happen every year on this bend. The weeds on the hillside are too high to see even a school bus.

My suggestion is this: Why doesn't the bus go back to the old loading place at Schmidt's, with the bus going out, or if they insist on stopping on the return trip, using the strip of road that runs at the edge of the highway after you get around the bend.

This strip of ground is smooth and it is wider than the bus and many times longer. And the best part of it is that it also is off the highway. In either place there would be no worry of being struck from behind.

From what I gather, the Junior High students are picked up from the south side of the road on this strip of ground I mentioned before. Then why not the smaller ones who have no sense of danger?

Mr. Allison's idea of putting bells on the buses is an unusual idea, but a very sound one.

Another school bus has been rammed in a heavy fog — this time near Lisbon, with no one seriously injured. Who will be next?

As long as we keep Daylight Saving Time in the fall months, we will not be free of this danger.

It has been recommended by the East Liverpool Board of Education, Supt. Betts, Asst. Supt. Blair, the County Board of Education and the East Palestine Ministerial Association that daylight time end as soon as possible.

Such a strong recommendation should have been met with immediate action by East Liverpool City Council. But what happened?

Council "will set up the machinery at its next regular meeting Oct. 6 to make a survey of all communities of the area." In effect, they are using the old political hocus-pocus of sending the matter to committee. It isn't politically expedient to come out with a straight forward "no" in the face of these strong recommendations even though really they want no change.

May I point out that East Liverpool will not be a "slow time island in the center of a fast time area." Wellsville ends Daylight Time Sept. 28 this year as in other years. Its citizens have not found it too inconvenient to be out of step.

Surely the citizens of East Liverpool value the health and safety of their children as much as the citizens of Wellsville.

New View Of Equality

By David Lawrence

School Standards Need Protection

Ten years ago — before the integration problem had become as acute as it is today — this correspondent had an interesting discussion about the question with the principal of a high school in a large city in the north.

David Lawrence

"How is the mixing of races in the school working out?" I asked him.

"Fine," he replied.

"Do the colored girls dance with white boys in social functions after school?"

"No," he said, "they stay apart and for the most part keep to themselves in separate groups socially."

"Is there any friction in the classrooms?"

"No."

"Then you do not have any trouble?"

"Well, I wouldn't say that. If, for instance, we award a prize and there is any suspicion that we have discriminated against the colored pupil, we will hear from it."

"Then, on the whole, it is working out all right?"

"Yes, but you see we have only one - third colored to two - thirds white." He paused and then added: "I'll tell you frankly I wouldn't want to be principal of this same high school if it were two-thirds colored and one-third white."

THE PRINCIPAL didn't elaborate. This writer couldn't help thinking today of that conversation upon reading the results of a poll taken in the last few weeks in the North as well as in the South by Dr. George Gallup of the American Institute of Public Opinion.

It showed differing answers dependent on the proportion of colored pupils to be enrolled in a public school. Thus, when the inquiry was whether the person interviewed would have any objection to sending his or her children to a public school where "a few of the children are colored," the answer in the North was that 86 per cent would not object.

When the question asked of the same people was whether there would be objection if half the children were colored, the objecting figure rose to 39 per cent.

When the third question was asked — whether there would be objection if more than half were colored — the objecting percentage in the North rose to 58 per cent, while 6 per cent expressed no opinion. This is a clear majority against such integration.

Naturally, in the South the percentages of objectors went from 72 to 81 to 84, respectively, in answering the same three questions. For in many parts of the South the colored children already outnumber the white by a considerable margin and there seems no doubt that, if "integration" were strictly enforced, there would be many schools with a predominance of colored pupils.

It is significant that the Gallup pollsters reported that "in explaining objections to integration, many persons added that it was not so much a racial matter but a fear the educational standard of their school would be lowered."

THERE IS ALREADY evidence that, in some heavily integrated schools in the North, the educational standards have lagged. This is explained by some educators as due to the lack of educational background of the colored parents and their long residence in a low-income environment.

There seems to be no evidence as yet as to how many years it will take to overcome this handicap.

It would not be surprising, therefore, to see a court case some day in which the words of the Supreme Court of the United States will be turned back on the justices who, in the 1954 decision, ruled that "segregation of children in the public schools solely on the basis of race, even though the physical facilities and other 'tangible' factors may be equal, deprive the children of the minority group of equal educational opportunities."

The argument may well be heard that the discrimination in a predominantly Negro school is against the new minority — the white children — who are deprived of the high standards of education they once enjoyed.

The Supreme Court's decision, literally interpreted, means that, even though there are not enough Negro children in a school district to equalize the proportions, something must be done — by transfers and by the city's payment of bus fares — to obtain "equal educational opportunities" for every Negro child. This course is being advocated by Negro groups in New York City.

THE COURT'S decision approved a finding that segregation has a tendency "to retard the educational and mental development of Negro children."

This plainly puts upon the federal courts the responsibility of being concerned someday about the retardation of the "educational and mental development" of white children, too.

Long before there is a 50-50 "integration," the parents of white children will be demanding from the "supreme school board" in Washington "equal" benefits so that the white children may obtain as good an education as they were getting in the same schools before the 1954 decision was proclaimed as "the law of the land."

These issues may seem only academic to the wealthy parents who can afford to send their children to private schools or the public schools in neighborhoods where there is virtually no colored population. Will the 14th Amendment someday, however, be construed to mean that wealth must be redistributed so that it will be "equal?"

Does it create a "sense of inferiority" not to have as much money as someone else, especially where education for one's children is involved?

Plainly there are still some big gaps in the doctrine of "equal protection of the law" — if "intangible" factors are as important as they seem to be regarded by the Supreme Court.

Be Sure To Get The Facts

By Mrs. Richard H. Bauer

(Editor's Note: Some of T.T.'s readers have written vacation columns for him again this year. Today's essayist is a housewife.)

A popular comedienne who used to appear on a nationally known radio show was asked if she believed in exercising her franchise. Her emphatic reply, "I certainly do. There is nothing I hate worse than a flabby franchise!" epitomizes the attitude of a good many American citizens.

On the other hand, there is a regrettably high percentage of Americans who loudly proclaim the democratic way of life but are woefully lazy about exercising the precious right of the franchise.

It is obvious in many places that citizens should be exercising their franchise like mad, not only in voting but in literally hundreds of ways; ways which keep the rights and privileges and responsibilities of our citizenship in good, firm and flexible working order.

Have you ever really looked around your town to see how city and county governments worked and where they might be improved? What do you know, for instance, about your city departments, your welfare agencies, your water program?

What about sewage disposal methods where you live? Are they causing a bad case of municipal halitosis? Are you living in a community where concerted action is imperative to raise teachers' inadequate salaries in your public schools; where citizens should be supporting efforts to improve recreational facilities for children, youth and adults?

Action doesn't end, moreover, when a particular problem is temporarily solved. Good government is composed of a lot of little things, and one of the most useful is a keen eye on the public agencies in the community. As one wise person has said, "Bad politicians are elected by good people who do not vote."

Our responsible citizenship can no longer be confined just to our own community, our state, or even our own nation. The world has suddenly become a neighborhood. What happens in the Middle East, for example, affects our country's fortune—and that means yours and mine.

The current Middle East crisis represents a momentous testing of the United Nations, and even more, of the governments that set it up as a means through which they might deal with threats to the peace.

What U.N. programs exist in the Middle East designed to get at the underlying problems involved? Do they constitute substantial enough efforts to provide hope to the people that their goals can be achieved without resort to violence and revolution? Would a larger U.N. fund for economic development be desirable? What has been the extent of U.S. participation in these activities?

These are only examples of the kind of questions United States citizens ought to be asking if we are to assure ourselves that we are doing all we can to promote the maximum effectiveness of the instrument we helped to create—the United Nations.

To answer these questions citizens need facts. And nothing the civic and educational organizations and service clubs could do for United Nations Day in 1958 would be more useful than to make sure all the relevant facts are available to the people of their own communities . . . and are actually being put across to them.

Mishap Hurts Girl At Recess

1st Accident Listed Involving Student

The first traffic accident involving injury to a student since the 1958-59 school term opened was listed by East Liverpool police early Thursday afternoon when a 14-year-old sophomore was bumped by an auto while returning to the High School after the noon recess.

She is Miss Gilberta Deem, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert R. Deem, 425 Grant St., who was treated at City Hospital for bruises of the left thigh and elbow. Police said she was struck while on W. 5th St. at Market St. by a 1957 sedan operated by Larry Faith, 17, of R. D. 2.

En route back to classes after lunch, the girl was crossing W. 5th from north to south about 12:40 p. m., police said. She told police the traffic light was in her favor.

Faith told police he was driving south on Market St. and turned west on W. 5th at about 5 miles an hour when the girl walked into his car. The driver took the injured girl to the hospital, police said.

Accident

The search continued until the step-sons and companion came across the body at 1:15 p. m.

Mr. Bracken's car was found on the Salem Church Rd. between the church and Five-Points. The body was about a half-mile from the car.

Daniels learned that Mr. Branken had borrowed a shotgun from Robert Henderson, a farmer, about 4:40 a. m., relating that he had two coons treed but the pistol was not too effective.

Mr. Bracken was born May 30, 1902, in Hayesville, N. C., and was a member of the Evangelical United Brethren Church of Industry.

He is survived by his widow at home; a brother, Brian Bracken of Crestline; his step-mother, Mrs. Maggie Bracken; two half-brothers and two half-sisters in Hayesville, the two step-sons in Industry and four grandchildren.

Services will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the United Bretheren Church of Letart Falls, Ohio. The Rev. Edmund Life will officiate. Burial will be in Letart Falls Cemetery. Friends may call after 7 tonight at the Schwerha Funeral Home in Midland.

Mishap Hurts Girl At Recess

1st Accident Listed Involving Student

The first traffic accident involving injury to a student since the 1958-59 school term opened was listed by East Liverpool police early Thursday afternoon when a 14-year-old sophomore was bumped by an auto while returning to the High School after the noon recess.

She is Miss Gilberta Deem, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert R. Deem, 425 Grant St., who was treated at City Hospital for bruises of the left thigh and elbow. Police said she was struck while on W. 5th St. at Market St. by a 1957 sedan operated by Larry Faith, 17, of R. D. 2.

En route back to classes after lunch, the girl was crossing W. 5th from north to south about 12:40 p. m., police said. She told police the traffic light was in her favor.

Faith told police he was driving south on Market St. and turned west on W. 5th at about 5 miles an hour when the girl walked into his car. The driver took the injured girl to the hospital, police said.

Accident

The search continued until the step-sons and companion came across the body at 1:15 p. m.

Mr. Bracken's car was found on the Salem Church Rd. between the church and Five-Points. The body was about a half-mile from the car.

Daniels learned that Mr. Branken had borrowed a shotgun from Robert Henderson, a farmer, about 4:40 a. m., relating that he had two coons treed but the pistol was not too effective.

An Invitation To Russia

Dulles May Have Implied U.S. Indecision, Weakness

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Secretary of State Dulles has spoken out against "indecision or weakness" in the Far East crisis. But his address in New York Thursday night seemed to imply American indecision and weakness.

In fact, the secretary may have issued an invitation to the Soviet Union to seize the diplomatic initiative once again in this grim battle for influence over the world's uncommitted millions. There would be a great deal of propaganda credit to be reaped from any peacemaking gesture in the Far East.

Secretary Dulles' words seemed to indicate that the key to the solution of the Far East crisis—perhaps the only key—was in the hands of the Russians. He said he believes "the Soviet Union, if it wanted to see a peaceful solution, could make that possible." This sounds more like an invitation than a challenge, and the Russians, when they have finished toying with the world's nerves, may even accept it.

There are many among America's allies who believe the key to the Far East crisis still lies in the heavy pressure of world opinion. The bulk of world opinion at the moment appears to see the United States' position in the whole matter of the offshore islands as hopelessly untenable, whatever their fears of Communist expansion might be.

Many of these allies view U.S. support of Chiang Kai-shek's pipe dreams of reconquering the mainland as a constant and growing menace to the peace of Asia and the world.

Now the secretary seems to be outlining U.S. policy as follows: The United States would welcone an arrangement which did not involve bowing to force and which would eliminate the elements in the present crisis which plainly menace world peace.

All his emphasis is on the word "force." The United States contends, says Dulles, that the Communists cannot be permitted to take what they want by force. The United States, he says, will not retreat in the face of "force or the threat of force," but "our position otherwise is flexible."

What does this mean?

Does it mean the Communists can hope to get the islands by abandoning force? If it does not mean that, then U.S. policy remains inflexible. In that case, the United States must continue to support Chiang's presence in the offshore islands.

Does it mean there is a possibility of negotiating the offshore islands into Communist hands? Then the United States, despite Dulles' words, would be retreating. And there would be no way of explaining away the melancholy fact that it would be a retreat before pressure.

Dulles contends the recognition of Red China would be of immense help to the Chinese Communists in carrying out their Asian policy. But the present U.S. position also is of great help to the Chinese in their Asian policies and to the Russians in their global policies.

The situation now, plainly, is that the threat of meeting force with force in the Far East raises a specter of world war. The fact that neither the Russians nor the Red Chinese may want to go that far does not alter the certainity that the rest of the world-particularly the uncommitted world of Asia and Africa—is terribly frightened.

If U.S. policy is truly flexible, as Dulles says, the question arises: Just where does the flexibility come in? That question hasn't been answered.

The dolorous conclusion from the secretary's newest statement is that it seems to have done little to unravel the tangled lines of U.S. policy.

Called Before Governor

Negro's Clemency Hearing Today May Save His Life

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A 55-year-old illiterate Negro handyman was called before Gov. James E. Folsom today for a clemency hearing which may save his life.

Jimmy Wilson is under sentence to die in the electric chair Oct. 24 for robbing an elderly white widow.

Sources close to the governor say they expect him to commute Wilson's sentence to life imprisonment. Wilson then would have to serve 15 years before he would be eligible for parole.

Wilson was given the death sentence for robbing Mrs. Estelle Barker, 82, at her home at Marion, Ala. The woman testified Wilson threatened her life, choked her and tried to rape her. Wilson took $1.95 in the robbery.

Instead of being charged with attempted rape, which carries a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison, Wilson was indicted for robbery and nighttime burglary, both capital offenses. He was tried only on the first indictment. He had served two prison terms for grand larceny.

Although the small amount of money involved is immaterial under Alabama law, it triggered a torrent of protests both from the United States and abroad. Many of the letters which flooded into Folsom's office asking clemency for the Negro contained checks for $1.95.

The death sentence was upheld by the State Supreme Court. Later, in denying a request for a rehearing of the case, the high court emphasized that the Negro was convicted not merely of taking $1.95 but of a crime of violence.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles telegraphed Folsom to tell him that the case was causing great concern overseas.

Motor Carriers Given Cargoes Exemptions

The Interstate Commerce Commission has ended the exemption of certain foreign imports by the motor trucking industry from ICC regulations, Forrest White of Wheeling, district supervisor, announced.

White said the Transportation Act of 1958 has made subject to all provisions of Part II of ICC regulations the motor transportation of frozen fruits, frozen vegetables, cocoa beans, coffee beans, tea, bananas, hemp, wool imports, wool tops and noils and waste. Formerly such items were exempt, except for provisions relating to qualifications and hours of service of workers or equipment.

Common and contract carriers which had been transporting the commodities on or before May 1 and have operated continuously since have been granted permissive rights, allowing a continuance of the operations until an application for a permit is filed within 120 days after the act was made effective.

Forms for such applications are available at the ICC office at the Hawley Building, Wheeling.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—For sale: Three-bedroom home in Palm Springs with elegantly furnished guest house and swimming pool.

That's the gist of an ad Debbie Reynolds is running in a Hollywood trade paper for the desert resort hideaway where she and Eddie Fisher and their children spent many holidays.

The couple's three-year marriage collapsed under pressure of reports that the singer was dating Elizabeth Taylor.

Miss Reynolds' attorney said Thursday that the actress will file for divorce after "a number of financial matters are ironed out."

WSCS To Provide Offering For Prayer Week Projects

Additional offerings for the Week of Prayer and Dedication were considered Tuesday night at the meeting of the WSCS of the Boyce Methodist Church in the Boyce Auditorium.

Donations were made for supplies.

In response to a request of Mrs. H. T. Williams, district supply secretary, the sum of $44 was given for the West Side Community House in Cleveland and Pfeiffer College in North Carolina in the home field and for medical supplies at Severance Hospital in Korea for the foreign field.

Individual circles will promote additional offerings for the prayer week projects. The domestic funds will be used for deaconess pensions and overseas for an auditorium at the Eliza Bowman School in Cienfeugos, Cuba, student hostels in Mexico and for the development of the work of the Women's Division in Bolivia.

Mrs. Howard Tice, president, opened the meeting by reading a quotation from Phillip Brooks. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Ethel Armstrong.

Reports of the Girls School of Missions at Lakeside this summer were given by Miss Susan Price and Miss Jane Baldwin, who were sponsored by the local group.

Members were reminded October is the month to renew subscriptions to the "Methodist Woman" and "World Outlook," church publications, by Mrs. Elizabeth Donnelly, literature and publications secretary.

A letter from Mrs. Doyle Scott, district Christian social relations secretary, was read by Mrs. Harry Jackson, secretary of local church activities, urging that members make sure they are registered to vote.

The group discussed the formation of a Christian social relations committee. Mrs. Jackson reported on the county WSCS meeting Sept. 15 in Lisbon and outlined projects in which women's societies can participate. She was named to investigate the sponsorship of the UNICEF Halloween project of "Trick or Treat for Children of the World."

Reports were read by Mrs. Chester Channels, secretary, and Mrs. Clyde Graham, treasurer.

Christmas cards being sold by the Mary Martha Circle were displayed by Mrs. A. Stanley Kidder. Attendance for roll call was Dorothea Memorial, 13; Mary Martha, 4 and Mary Esther and Naomi Ruth, 2 each.

Mrs. Lewis Bailey, a new member of the Dorothea Memorial group, was introduced. Announcement was made of the revival services beginning Sunday at the church.

"No One Ever Cares for Me Like Jesus" was the group hymn led by Mrs. Dean DeLong Jr., program chairman, and Mrs. Kidder was pianist.

For devotions, Mrs. Frank Whealdon explained the theme, "Christ for the World We Sing," being used by women's groups of the denomination. Her Scripture was from 1 John 1:1-14 and she offered prayer.

Mrs. DeLong read a report of the assembly held in May at St. Louis and displayed pictures.

The benediction was offered by Mrs. Whealdon, and members repeated the Lord's Prayer.

Lighted candles and a floral arrangement highlighted table decorations and members of the Dorothea Memorial Circle were hostesses. Grace was sung.

A program stressing the Week of Prayer and Self - Denial will be held in the church at 7 o'clock, Oct. 28, under the direction of Mrs. Hazel Costello, spiritual life chairman, preceding the regular meeting at 7:30 in the auditorium.

Mrs. Lawrence Channels will be devotion leader and Mrs. Chester Channels will have charge of the program. Members of the Naomi Ruth Circle will be hostesses.

A Day In The Life Of A Candidate

Things Happen Fast From Time O'Neill Rises Till He Hits The Hay

By ART PARKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

It is one of those recent days when the red summer sky decided to settle down to good old mother earth and cry.

The clouds are nudging the window sill when an alarm clock shrills in a great stone mansion in a suburb of Ohio's capital city.

The time is 5:30 a.m. and Bill O'Neill has a little difficulty shaking the cobwebs out of his brain. But it isn't all cobwebs; the atmosphere is well-laced with honest-to-goodness fog.

The governor's schedule calls for a rugged day, but he doesn't know the half of it yet.

He spends 15 minutes in mental planning for a long series of the day's activities, half of which are destined never to come off. But he doesn't know that yet.

The 5-foot-4 chief executive finally swings his feet out of bed at 5:45. One peek out the window gives him a premonition that all is not going as planned that day.

Five minutes with a safety razor clears away the whisker crop and with all deliberate speed he sets about preparing for the day. Thirty minutes later, attired in a gray herringbone suit, white shirt, gray and white tie and black shoes, he is ready for breakfast.

Mrs. O'Neill joins him for breakfast, but because of the hour, son Dubbie and daughter Peggy are still asleep.

Hardly have the soft-boiled eggs disappeared when the phone rings and a private air service gives him the bad news: "We might get off the ground here, but Cleveland is really socked in. Sorry, governor, but we can't get you there."

There follows a flurry of phone calls. How about a train? How about driving? Are the commercial airlines flying?

Press Secretary Hal W. Conefry, already at the airport, checks out all possibilities. The best bet seems to be a commercial flight leaving Columbus at 10:30 a.m., EST. But that's 11:30 a.m., Cleveland time.

Another flurry of calls to Columbus news offices and to those managing the big campaign day in Cleveland. Automatically, O'Neill must cancel a 10:30 a.m. press conference in Cleveland, a noon luncheon for newsmen and a 1:30 p.m. news conference for radio and television reporters.

Almost before the day has started, the rain and fog have washed half the day's program down the drain.

Finally the governor steps into his car at the governor's mansion and his driver, Willie Lawrenson, a penitentiary trusty, pilots him to Port Columbus. At the airport, O'Neill finds state Auditor Jim Rhodes, by coincidence, boarding the same airliner to attend the same meetings.

At last they are in the air and O'Neill settles down to read a stack of mail. More than an hour later, after a round-about, longer-than-normal flight, the aircraft makes it to the ground at Cleveland's Hopkins Airport.

A car picks up the two officials, but during their long ride-through the rain, of course - there is confusion downtown.

Where is the women's tea, scheduled for 2:30, going to be held?

On the basis of advance publicity, duly printed by all three Cleveland daily papers, the tea is scheduled for a hotel. Turns out there had been a change in plans. Now it is to be held in the lounge of a department store.

The governor pulls into a downtown motel where the washed-out press conferences had been scheduled, stops for a quick bite of lunch with A. L. (Sonny) Demaiorbus, Cuyahoga County Republican chairman, and Alvin (Buddy) Krenzler, one of his chief advisers.

At last the governor arrives at the tea - 41 minutes late. Nearly nine hours after his clock had blasted him into consciousness after only 6½ hours' sleep, O'Neill was beginning his campaign day.

He passes through the crowd of women, shaking hands right and left. He makes his way to a huge easel which holds a giant photo-mural of the statehouse - the most familiar prop of O'Neill's campaigns.

Quietly and efficiently, the photo crew starts its job. A couple of men have been getting the women lined up and the picture-taking begins. One man takes from the first woman a numbered card and hands it to the camera assistant. The card, on which the woman has written her name and address, is inserted in a slot on the side of the camera.

The woman is gently propelled over to the governor who is waiting—all smiles—in front of the photo-mural. He grasps her hand briefly and a brilliant light flashes. The picture now recorded on film, the first woman is again gently propelled—this time away from the governor—and another woman takes her place. Again the camera pops.

And again, and again, and again, like clockwork.

This is one of the most effective of the O'Neill campaign devices.

In a few weeks, the ladies will be receiving in the mail prints of the photographs showing them shaking hands with the governor, with the statehouse in the background. And they didn't even have to leave Cleveland to do it!

A newspaper photographer asks O'Neill to interrupt the picture-taking stint long enough to pose at the table. O'Neill obliges, gets a plate and a cup of tea, a couple of cookies and has his picture taken with the club's officers. Then he slips his tea plate back onto the table—the food untasted—and hustles back to the campaign photographs routine.

Atty. Gen. Bill Saxbe, who has dropped into help with the Cuyahoga County opener, can stand it no longer. He has been ouching around the room with a wrenched back. And the wet weather isn't helping the pain a bit. He appeals to Rhodes, who is to be master of ceremonies. Rhodes takes the microphone, explains Saxbe must leave. Saxbe gives out with a few words of welcome.

As soon as U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker strides into the room, the program begins. After conveying the regrets of GOP candidates who couldn't make it through the foul weather, Rhodes introduces Bricker.

With more than 200 pictures taken, O'Neill emerges from behind the big photo-mural easel to be introduced.

"We will continue to fight the tax spenders and oppose waste and extravagance in government. We are counting on the women of this state to continue us in office."

When the tea ends and a few score more hands have been shaken, the governor is told by Krenzler that a special five-minute telecast has been arranged to follow the evening rally.

O'Neill, DeMaioribus and Krenzler descent to street level looking hopeful—but still it rained.

Not too long afterward, the governor's party arrives at a dinner rally at the Masonic Temple. More than 2,000 precinct leaders, who have paid $2 each for the dinner, jam the bunting-decked hall. Pictures of all Republican state candidates hang above the speakers' table, but most prominent are color photographs of President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon.

The ever-present photographic crew is all set up and ready for business when the governor arrives.

Pop! Pop! Pop!

Everyone else is devouring his roast beef, potatoes and peas, but over at the side of the hall, a dinner-less Bill O'Neill is still smiling, shaking hands and having his picture taken every few seconds.

When the flash equipment finally quits, I ask him:

"Governor, how do your eyes ever stand all those flashes?"

"Art," he smiles, "it doesn't bother me a bit any more. When we first started this, it was killing me. I had spots in front of my eyes all the time."

"What happened? What do you do—look slightly away from the camera or something?"

"I'm not sure just what I do. But I think maybe you've got something there. That's probably what I do—just not look at the camera directly."

A question directed to the camera crew about the number of photographs taken during the day is picked up by Krenzler:

"I'll check and let you know in a few minutes," he assures me.

The speeches, interspersed by music from an orchestra which had furnished the dinner music, are under way. Candidates are introduced. Saxbe and his ailing back miss the dinner, but his place is taken by state treasurer Roger (Bud) Tracy, Rhodes also takes a bow.

DeMaioribus, firmly but without rancor, tells the precinct leaders they have a job to do for the party. He is followed by Sen. Bricker who urges O'Neill's re-election.

Now it is time for O'Neill to speak and he gets an ovation. Observers agree it is one of the toughest, most emotional talks of his campaign.

"There is something growing in our state that I am unhappy about. It is something like a cancer . . . Corruption and hoodlumism among a few is gnawing at the vitals of groups set up to defend the rights of decent, hard-working men and women . . . I abhor it . . . Congress failed to act . . . It may be necessary to have state laws. . . ."

A tap on my shoulder and a voice in my ear: "Between 1,700 and 1,800."

"Between 1,700 and 1,800 what?"

"That's how many pictures we took today."

"Oh! Thanks, Buddy."

The meeting is over, the clean-up crew takes over, down comes the big "O'Neill for Governor" banner and the governor's party climbs back into raincoats. But outside—wonder of wonders — the rain has stopped!

—:—

O'Neill scans the darkened sky: "I believe we can fly home . . . I don't know about you fellow, but I've got to get something to eat. I'm starved."

A solid chunk of roast beef revives the governor's flagging spirit. Then the party is off to the television studio. O'Neill makes a few notes as he sits on the set in the studio.

Soon the red eye of the TV camera lights up and the governor is on the air. It turns out to be far from the best TV appearance he has ever made. It is now nearly 17 hours since O'Neill arose and, despite his earlier protests, his eyes obviously are tired. The studio lights are too bright for tired eyes. He squints.

But flesh and blood have a limit. O'Neill's mind is functioning better than his eyes. The speech is a briefed-down version of the dinner address. With only a few bobbles, it comes off well.

Off now for the airport where the private plane is waiting, the craft which was supposed to bring the governor to Cleveland this morning. Rhodes, O'Neill and a traveling newsman clamber aboard. The three huddle together for the takeoff into the murky sky. Once aloft, the wingtips are scarcely visible from the cabin.

There is no bright, witty conversation. In fact, there is no conversation at all.

Rhodes' nodding head comes to rest on the newsman's right shoulder. O'Neill is slumbering peacefully on the other.

Walkout At Ford Plant Sanctioned By Local Union

CLEVELAND (AP)—A walkout which began Thursday at the Walton Hills stamping plant of Ford Motor Co. now has the sanction of Local 420 of the United Auto Workers Union.

The local's executive board voted that the strike would be in effect until a membership meeting Sunday.

Originally that meeting was scheduled to vote on agreements negotiated two days ago to end a seven-day strike at the plant, where about 2,700 are employed.

Union members said some men are dissatisfied with the national agreement negotiated in Detroit, and others are against the local terms negotiated here.

In suburban Brook Park, Ford's went back into production as members of Local 1250 returned to their jobs under an agreement reached Wednesday night. About 6,300 are involved.

Near Twinsburg in Summit County, Local 122 and Chrysler Corp. announced settlement of a dispute over suspension of a sweeper, who had been accused of threatening a foreman. His status now was not announced. The walkout which followed the suspension began Tuesday night and the return began Thursday night.

A Day In The Life Of A Candidate

Things Happen Fast From Time O'Neill Rises Till He Hits The Hay

By ART PARKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

It is one of those recent days when the red summer sky decided to settle down to good old mother earth and cry.

The clouds are nudging the window sill when an alarm clock shrills in a great stone mansion in a suburb of Ohio's capital city.

The time is 5:30 a.m. and Bill O'Neill has a little difficulty shaking the cobwebs out of his brain. But it isn't all cobwebs; the atmosphere is well-laced with honest-to-goodness fog.

The governor's schedule calls for a rugged day, but he doesn't know the half of it yet.

He spends 15 minutes in mental planning for a long series of the day's activities, half of which are destined never to come off. But he doesn't know that yet.

The 5-foot-4 chief executive finally swings his feet out of bed at 5:45. One peek out the window gives him a premonition that all is not going as planned that day.

—:—

Five minutes with a safety razor clears away the whisker crop and with all deliberate speed he sets about preparing for the day. Thirty minutes later, attired in a gray herringbone suit, white shirt, gray and white tie and black shoes, he is ready for breakfast.

Mrs. O'Neill joins him for breakfast, but because of the hour, son Dubbie and daughter Peggy are still asleep.

Hardly have the soft-boiled eggs disappeared when the phone rings and a private air service gives him the bad news: "We might get off the ground here, but Cleveland is really socked in. Sorry, governor, but we can't get you there."

There follows a flurry of phone calls. How about a train? How about driving? Are the commercial airlines flying?

Press Secretary Hal W. Conefry, already at the airport, checks out all possibilities. The best bet seems to be a commercial flight leaving Columbus at 10:30 a.m., EST. But that's 11:30 a.m., Cleveland time.

Another flurry of calls to Columbus news offices and to those managing the big campaign day in Cleveland. Automatically, O'Neill must cancel a 10:30 a.m. press conference in Cleveland, a noon luncheon for newsmen and a 1:30 p.m. news conference for radio and television reporters.

Almost before the day has started, the rain and fog have washed half the day's program down the drain.

Finally the governor steps into his car at the governor's mansion and his driver, Willie Lawrenson, a penitentiary trusty, pilots him to Port Columbus. At the airport, O'Neill finds state Auditor Jim Rhodes, by coincidence, boarding the same airliner to attend the same meetings.

At last they are in the air and O'Neill settles down to read a stack of mail. More than an hour later, after a round-about, longer-than-normal flight, the aircraft makes it to the ground at Cleveland's Hopkins Airport.

A car picks up the two officials, but during their long ride-through the rain, of course - there is confusion downtown.

Where is the women's tea, scheduled for 2:30, going to be held?

On the basis of advance publicity, duly printed by all three Cleveland daily papers, the tea is scheduled for a hotel. Turns out there had been a change in plans. Now it is to be held in the lounge of a department store.

The governor pulls into a downtown motel where the washed-out press conferences had been scheduled, stops for a quick bite of lunch with A. L. (Sonny) Demaiorbus, Cuyahoga County Republican chairman, and Alvin (Buddy) Krenzler, one of his chief advisers.

At last the governor arrives at the tea - 41 minutes late. Nearly nine hours after his clock had blasted him into consciousness after only 6½ hours' sleep, O'Neill was beginning his campaign day.

He passes through the crowd of women, shaking hands right and left. He makes his way to a huge easel which holds a giant photo-mural of the statehouse - the most familiar prop of O'Neill's campaigns.

Quietly and efficiently, the photo crew starts its job. A couple of men have been getting the women lined up and the picture-taking begins. One man takes from the first woman a numbered card and hands it to the camera assistant. The card, on which the woman has written her name and address, is inserted in a slot on the side of the camera.

The woman is gently propelled over to the governor who is waiting—all smiles—in front of the photo-mural. He grasps her hand briefly and a brilliant light flashes, The picture now recorded on film, the first woman is again gently propelled—this time away from the governor—and another woman takes her place. Again the camera pops.

And again, and again, and again, like clockwork.

This is one of the most effective of the O'Neill campaign devices.

In a few weeks, the ladies will be receiving in the mail prints of the photographs showing them shaking hands with the governor, with the statehouse in the background. And they didn't even have to leave Cleveland to do it!

A newspaper photographer asks O'Neill to interrupt the picture-taking stint long enough to pose at the table. O'Neill obliges, gets a plate and a cup of tea, a couple of cookies and has his picture taken with the club's officers. Then he slips his tea plate back onto the table—the food untasted—and hustles back to the campaign photographs routine.

Atty. Gen. Bill Saxbe, who has dropped into help with the Cuyahoga County opener, can stand it no longer. He has been ouching around the room with a wrenched back. And the wet weather isn't helping the pain a bit. He appeals to Rhodes, who is to be master of ceremonies. Rhodes takes the microphone, explains Saxbe must leave. Saxbe gives out with a few words of welcome.

As soon as U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker strides into the room, the program begins. After conveying the regrets of GOP candidates who couldn't make it through the foul weather, Rhodes introduces Bricker.

With more than 200 pictures taken, O'Neill emerges from behind the big photo-mural easel to be introduced.

"We will continue to fight the tax spenders and oppose waste and extravagance in government. We are counting on the women of this state to continue us in office."

When the tea ends and a few score more hands have been shaken, the governor is told by Krenzler that a special five-minute telecast has been arranged to follow the evening rally.

O'Neill, DeMaioribus and Krenzler descent to street level looking hopeful—but still it rained.

Not too long afterward, the governor's party arrives at a dinner rally at the Masonic Temple. More than 2,000 precinct leaders, who have paid $2 each for the dinner, jam the bunting-decked hall. Pictures of all Republican state candidates hang above the speakers' table, but most prominent are color photographs of President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon.

The ever-present photographic crew is all set up and ready for business when the governor arrives.

Pop! Pop! Pop!

Everyone else is devouring his roast beef, potatoes and peas, but over at the side of the hall, a dinner-less Bill O'Neill is still smiling, shaking hands and having his picture taken every few seconds.

When the flash equipment finally quits, I ask him:

"Governor, how do your eyes ever stand all those flashes?"

"Art," he smiles, "it doesn't bother me a bit any more. When we first started this, it was killing me. I had spots in front of my eyes all the time."

"What happened? What do you do—look slightly away from the camera or something?"

"I'm not sure just what I do. But I think maybe you've got something there. That's probably what I do—just not look at the camera directly."

A question directed to the camera crew about the number of photographs taken during the day is picked up by Krenzler:

"I'll check and let you know in a few minutes," he assures me.

The speeches, interspersed by music from an orchestra which had furnished the dinner music, are under way. Candidates are introduced. Saxbe and his ailing back miss the dinner, but his place is taken by state treasurer Roger (Bud) Tracy, Rhodes also takes a bow.

DeMaioribus, firmly but without rancor, tells the precinct leaders they have a job to do for the party. He is followed by Sen. Bricker who urges O'Neill's re-election.

Now it is time for O'Neill to speak and he gets an ovation. Observers agree it is one of the toughest, most emotional talks of his campaign.

"There is something growing in our state that I am unhappy about. It is something like a cancer . . . Corruption and hoodlumism among a few is gnawing at the vitals of groups set up to defend the rights of decent, hard-working men and women . . . I abhor it . . . Congress failed to act . . . It may be necessary to have state laws. . . ."

A tap on my shoulder and a voice in my ear: "Between 1,700 and 1,800."

"Between 1,700 and 1,800 what?"

"That's how many pictures we took today."

"Oh! Thanks, Buddy."

The meeting is over, the clean-up crew takes over, down comes the big "O'Neill for Governor" banner and the governor's party climbs back into raincoats. But outside—wonder of wonders — the rain has stopped!

—:—

O'Neill scans the darkened sky: "I believe we can fly home . . . I don't know about you fellow, but I've got to get something to eat. I'm starved."

A solid chunk of roast beef revives the governor's flagging spirit. Then the party is off to the television studio. O'Neill makes a few notes as he sits on the set in the studio.

Ohio Governor Candidates Invade Each Other's Area

By The Associated Press

Ohio's two candidates for governor in the November election invaded each other's strongholds Thursday to deliver campaign speeches.

Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill stepped into the usually staunchly Democratic northern part of the state and Democrat Michael V. DiSalle spent 17 hours criss-crossing the usually equally staunch Republican southeastern area.

At Canton, O'Neill said Congress has failed to act in curbing labor racketeers. But he promised to recommend to the Ohio Legislature that it "take every possible action to clean out these various practices." He added:

"The gangsters, hoodlums and racketeers (from Ohio) who appeared before the Senate Rackets Committee . . . left the committee helpless and frustrated by their arrogant defiance of the committee's questions and by hiding behind the Fifth Amendment.

"We have to erase this blot, but Congress failed to act when it should have."

Earlier, an O'Neill campaign committee announced a revised Cuyahoga County campaign program which includes eight "family nights" in various sections of Cleveland next month.

DiSalle made stops at Athens, Logan, Lancaster, Wellston, Jackson, Proctorville and Ironton. He also held his fourth question-and-answer program on a Huntington, W. Va., television station.

At Ironton, the Toledo Democrat made public a letter he sent to Ohio Finance Director John A. Skipton, asking Skipton to meet with him next Thursday to explain what DiSalle called "discrepancies" in recent state financial reports.

The candidate said he would like to discuss changes in the state's accounting system.

DiSalle's letter explained:

"The citizens of Ohio . . . . (should) have a clear picture of the state's finances before the Nov. 4 election, rather than receive the shock afterwards."

At stops in Athens, Logan and Lancaster, respectively, DiSalle:

Criticized O'Neill for what the Toledoan said was the governor's great attention to ribbon-cutting ceremonies marking the opening of various facilities or occasions. (O'Neill often presides at such ceremonies, the ribbon-cutting at the Ohio State Fair for one.) DiSalle also, in his Athens talk, promised that if elected he would spend the first six months of his administration taking a department-by-department inventory of state government.

Discussed the need for a million more jobs by 1970 and called for a coordinated industrial development effort by the state. He said he heard from Washington that Charles M. Noble, Ohio highway director, is angling for the job of Bertram Tallamy, director of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Said he looked forward to the day when juvenile delinquents sent to Boys Industrial School at Lancaster would be rehabilitated and not be "trained in a career of crime."

Pennsylvania Town Awaits Speech Today By President

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — This picturesque mountain community site of a fort that played an important role in the French and Indian War, tingled with excitement today. The town's 3,500 citizens are playing host to President Eisenhower.

Top item on the agenda was a speech by the President, climaxing a bicentennial celebration that began last week and ends Saturday.

The President agreed to come to this community at the foot of the western slopes of the Allegheny Mountains at the request of Gen. Richard K. Mellon, a fellow Republican.

The site of the presidential speech was partially restored Ft. Ligonier along Loyalhanna Creek in this forest-covered valley about 50 miles east of Pittsburgh.

Ft. Ligonier was built 200 years ago on orders of British Gen. John Forbes during the struggle between French and English forces for control of unsettled land west of the Alleghenies.

Forbes' primary objective was Ft. Duquesne, a French outpost located at what now is Pittsburgh. To maintain a line of supplies, he built Forbes Road across the Alleghenies. Ft. Ligonier, named for Sir John Ligonier, commander in chief of the British army, was designed as a place for troops to rest and replenish their supplies.

The garrison withstood several severe attacks by the French and Indians. Later, after the British drove the French from Ft. Duquesne, Ft. Ligonier served as a refuge for settlers during the Indian war.

PTA At Newell Hears County's School Head

Robert Hall, superintendent of Hancock County schools, was speaker for the meeting of the Jefferson Parent - Teacher Association at the Newell School Wednesday night.

About 100 members attended and Joseph Jester, president, presided.

The attendance banner was won by the second grade of Mrs. Effie Fitch. The theme this year is "The PTA Concern for Our Children and Our Community."

Mrs. James Ryan, devotion leader, ended her reading with the Parent - Teachers prayer.

Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin of East Liverpool will be the speaker at the meeting Oct. 29 at 7:30 p. m. at the school.

City Gets $400 On Old Tickets

'Pay Or Else' Notice Speeds Settlements

Meter Maids have collected more than $400 in belated penalties so far from the 200 motorists holding old parking tickets to whom "pay-or-else" warnings were mailed Sept. 17.

Although no exact count was available on the number of payments, the women parking checkers said today "the great majority" of the motorists have made payments of $2 per ticket rather then face the possibility of being hauled into Municipal Court on a warrant.

In case of a court appearance, the driver generally is fined $5 and $6 costs for the first ticket and permitted to settle the balance for the usual $2.

The total collected from the 200 will average more than $2 per driver, as some of the motorists owed for several tickets, the Meter Maids explained.

Meanwhile, notices have been mailed to 68 more drivers with the same warning — pay $2 now or wait to be taken to court on a warrant.

Now that the backlog of old tickets is being cleaned up, notices will be mailed on a weekly basis to all ticketed drivers who fail to settle promptly, the Meter Maids said. The 200 original notices went to drivers holding tickets that dated back as far as April.

Once the rush of payments stops, warrants will be prepared for any of the 268 warned so far who have failed to make settlements.

Under the parking meter ordinance, a ticket can be settled for $1 within 24 hours after it is issued. Then the charge jumps to $2. The fine and costs are applied only if the driver is haled into court to exact payment.

Reading of the campaign to collect overdue penalties, some motorists have gone to City Hall to settle old tickets even though they did not receive warning notices, the Meter Maids said.

Wife Beater Hunted

CINCINNATI(AP)—Police stepped up a hunt today for Bruce E. Handlon, 45, who, they said, savagely beat his wife, Ruth Ann, 41, a polio cripple, before fleeing his home here Wednesday. The woman previously filed charges of assault to kill, assault and battery and family abuse on beatings suffered Sept. 7 and 15.

At Canton, O'Neill said Congress has failed to act in curbing labor racketeers. But he promised to recommend to the Ohio Legislature that it "take every possible action to clean out these various practices." He added:

"The gangsters, hoodlums and racketeers (from Ohio) who appeared before the Senate Rackets Committee . . . left the committee helpless and frustrated by their arrogant defiance of the committee's questions and by hiding behind the Fifth Amendment.

"We have to erase this blot, but Congress failed to act when it should have."

Earlier, an O'Neill campaign committee announced a revised Cuyahoga County campaign program which includes eight "family nights" in various sections of Cleveland next month.

DiSalle made stops at Athens, Logan, Lancaster, Wellston, Jackson, Proctorville and Ironton. He also held his fourth question-and-answer program on a Huntington, W. Va., television station.

At Ironton, the Toledo Democrat made public a letter he sent to Ohio Finance Director John A. Skipton, asking Skipton to meet with him next Thursday to explain what DiSalle called "discrepancies" in recent state financial reports.

The candidate said he would like to discuss changes in the state's accounting system.

DiSalle's letter explained:

"The citizens of Ohio . . . . (should) have a clear picture of the state's finances before the Nov. 4 election, rather than receive the shock afterwards."

At stops in Athens, Logan and Lancaster, respectively, DiSalle:

Criticized O'Neill for what the Toledoan said was the governor's great attention to ribbon-cutting ceremonies marking the opening of various facilities or occasions. (O'Neill often presides at such ceremonies, the ribbon-cutting at the Ohio State Fair for one.) DiSalle also, in his Athens talk, promised that if elected he would spend the first six months of his administration taking a department-by-department inventory of state government.

Discussed the need for a million more jobs by 1970 and called for a coordinated industrial development effort by the state. He said he heard from Washington that Charles M. Noble, Ohio highway director, is angling for the job of Bertram Tallamy, director of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Said he looked forward to the day when juvenile delinquents sent to Boys Industrial School at Lancaster would be rehabilitated and not be "trained in a career of crime."

Pennsylvania Town Awaits Speech Today By President

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — This picturesque mountain community site of a fort that played an important role in the French and Indian War, tingled with excitement today. The town's 3,500 citizens are playing host to President Eisenhower.

Top item on the agenda was a speech by the President, climaxing a bicentennial celebration that began last week and ends Saturday.

The President agreed to come to this community at the foot of the western slopes of the Allegheny Mountains at the request of Gen. Richard K. Mellon, a fellow Republican.

The site of the presidential speech was partially restored Ft. Ligonier along Loyalhanna Creek in this forest-covered valley about 50 miles east of Pittsburgh.

Ft. Ligonier was built 200 years ago on orders of British Gen. John Forbes during the struggle between French and English forces for control of unsettled land west of the Alleghenies.

Forbes' primary objective was Ft. Duquesne, a French outpost located at what now is Pittsburgh. To maintain a line of supplies, he built Forbes Road across the Alleghenies. Ft. Ligonier, named for Sir John Ligonier, commander in chief of the British army, was designed as a place for troops to rest and replenish their supplies.

The garrison withstood several severe attacks by the French and Indians. Later, after the British drove the French from Ft. Duquesne, Ft. Ligonier served as a refuge for settlers during the Indian war.

City Gets $400 On Old Tickets

'Pay Or Else' Notice Speeds Settlements

Meter Maids have collected more than $400 in belated penalties so far from the 200 motorists holding old parking tickets to whom "pay-or-else" warnings were mailed Sept. 17.

Although no exact count was available on the number of payments, the women parking checkers said today "the great majority" of the motorists have made payments of $2 per ticket rather then face the possibility of being hauled into Municipal Court on a warrant.

In case of a court appearance, the driver generally is fined $5 and $6 costs for the first ticket and permitted to settle the balance for the usual $2.

The total collected from the 200 will average more than $2 per driver, as some of the motorists owed for several tickets, the Meter Maids explained.

Meanwhile, notices have been mailed to 68 more drivers with the same warning — pay $2 now or wait to be taken to court on a warrant.

Now that the backlog of old tickets is being cleaned up, notices will be mailed on a weekly basis to all ticketed drivers who fail to settle promptly, the Meter Maids said. The 200 original notices went to drivers holding tickets that dated back as far as April.

Once the rush of payments stops, warrants will be prepared for any of the 268 warned so far who have failed to make settlements.

Under the parking meter ordinance, a ticket can be settled for $1 within 24 hours after it is issued. Then the charge jumps to $2. The fine and costs are applied only if the driver is haled into court to exact payment.

Reading of the campaign to collect overdue penalties, some motorists have gone to City Hall to settle old tickets even though they did not receive warning notices, the Meter Maids said.

Wife Beater Hunted

The woman previously filed charges of assault to kill, assault and battery and family abuse on beatings suffered Sept. 7 and 15.

City Library Has Pasternak Book Russians Are Ignoring

The appearance on the literary scene of Boris Pasternak's "Doctor Zhivago" can bring a greater understanding of the Russian people, according to Miss Frances Jones, librarian at the Carnegie Public Library.

The fact that this book appeared first in an Italian translation and its Russian edition has been indefinitely postponed shows that its point of view in things political does not meet with the approval of those in power in Moscow.

This is a moving and poetical experience of a physician who finally refused to practice his profession if it meant acceptance of the Soviet line in medicine. Those who would like a sample of modern Russian poetry will delight in some of the author's poems which have been included at the end of the novel.

A duo of pertinent books on the Soviet people at present is George S. Counts' "Challenge of Soviet Education" and "How to Cook and Eat in Russian" by Alexandra Kropotkin.

In the first volume, Counts brings to light several startling facts: Russia expends 10 per cent of its national income for education in contrast to the United States which spends only three per cent. Today 60 million Russians are involved in some sort of an educational program. The Russian princess who now writes a column for the magazine, "Today's Woman," provides some admirable recipes to tickle the American palate.

Linus Pauling, a Nobel prize-winning atomic scientist, builds a logical case for preserving peace in his recent book, "No More War." He discusses at length the contention which Schweitzer last spring was emphasizing—the effect of radiation "fall-out" can adversely affect the health of future generations.

"The Ordeal of the Captive Nations" by Hawthorne Daniel gives a history of Central European peoples' the subjugation of 10 countries under both Germany and Russia. The library has just secured one of the few histories of "The Yugoslavs" by Z. Kostelski.

A third Russina writer is represented on this week's new book shelf—M. Vassiliev, with the help of professors from the Soviet Academy of Science, has written for the Russian layman—"Sputnik Into Space." A third volume in the planet series is available from Macmillan Co.

This reveals fascinating details about the "The Planet Jupiter." Lloyd Mallan, who wrote "Men, Rockets and Space Rats," has prepared a book to prove that human beings still are important in the Air Force, the title, "A Day In the Life of a Supersonic Project Officer." The new Viking Press series on the military services is completed with appearance of Charles Daugherty's "The Army from Civilian to Soldier."

Suspense and terror are part of Louis Charbonneau's science fiction novel in 'No Place on Earth." "The Galaxy Reader" contains 15 science fiction stories from the magazine of the same name.

Amateur sleuths should welcome the following: "The April Robin Murders," by Craig Rice and Ed McBain; "The Lincoln Hunters," by Wilson Tucker, and the latest Crime Club selection. "Undiplomatic Exit," by John Sherwood.

Especially designed for the teen-age reader are the following: "Heartbreak Hot Rod," by James L. Summers. "The Rocket Pioneers on the Road to Space," by Beryl Williams, and a football classic, "Double Reverse," by H. D. Francis.

IUE Delays Strike At GE

Firm Warned About Job Security Plan

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The International Union of Electrical Workers has delayed setting a strike date against General Electric Co. but union President James B. Carey said a walkout will come if the company doesn't agree to the union's job security' demands.

The union's GE conference board Thursday night adopted a report by the union negotiating committee calling on the company to accept the union's eight-point job security program.

A union spokesman explained the board took no vote on strike action, but might do so at a future meeting.

Carey, head of the big union representing workers in some 50 GE locals across the country, declared:

"There will be a strike unless GE agrees to a job security clause in the contract."

Questioned by reporters, Carey would not say when any strike against GE would be called. He said that information would be aiding the company.

The board, however, recommended that the negotiating committee meet with GE next month in an effort to reach an agreement.

The union's five-year contract with the company does not expire until October, 1960. But it has a reopener clause for bargaining on job security this year, and a provision allowing the union to strike after Oct. 1.

High School Grid Rally Turned Into Riot In Arkansas

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — About 150 students turned a high school football rally into a melee Thursday night and attacked cars driven by Negroes and whites.

No injuries were reported although one white woman said she was slapped by one of the youths.

The demonstration erupted at Broad and State Line avenues, on the border of Texas and Arkansas. It involved students of Texarkana, Ark., High School and Texarkana, Tex., High.

The trouble began on the Arkansas side. Police dispersed the youths. The crowd then retreated across the street to Texas and yelled curses at the Arkansas officers.

The small Texarkana, Tex., police force struggled with the youths for about an hour. Reinforcements arrived and the officers broke up the mob.

Officers reported two students were arrested and charged with malicious mischief.

IUE Delays Strike At GE

Firm Warned About Job Security Plan

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The International Union of Electrical Workers has delayed setting a strike date against General Electric Co. but union President James B. Carey said a walkout will come if the company doesn't agree to the union's job security' demands.

The union's GE conference board Thursday night adopted a report by the union negotiating committee calling on the company to accept the union's eight-point job security program.

A union spokesman explained the board took no vote on strike action, but might do so at a future meeting.

Carey, head of the big union representing workers in some 50 GE locals across the country, declared:

"There will be a strike unless GE agrees to a job security clause in the contract."

Questioned by reporters, Carey would not say when any strike against GE would be called. He said that information would be aiding the company.

The board, however, recommended that the negotiating committee meet with GE next month in an effort to reach an agreement.

The union's five-year contract with the company does not expire until October, 1960. But it has a reopener clause for bargaining on job security this year, and a provision allowing the union to strike after Oct. 1.

High School Grid Rally Turned Into Riot In Arkansas

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — About 150 students turned a high school football rally into a melee Thursday night and attacked cars driven by Negroes and whites.

No injuries were reported although one white woman said she was slapped by one of the youths.

The demonstration erupted at Broad and State Line avenues, on the border of Texas and Arkansas. It involved students of Texarkana, Ark., High School and Texarkana, Tex., High.

The trouble began on the Arkansas side. Police dispersed the youths. The crowd then retreated across the street to Texas and yelled curses at the Arkansas officers.

The small Texarkana, Tex., police force struggled with the youths for about an hour. Reinforcements arrived and the officers broke up the mob.

Officers reported two students were arrested and charged with malicious mischief.

Will Provide Space For 2,000 Prisoners

24½ Million Building-Improvement Plan Bared By Correction Division

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 24½-million-dollar building and improvements program that, among other things, will provide space for 2,000 prisoners was unveiled Thursday by the State Division of Correction.

The program resulted after a series of conferences among Dr. Robert A. Haines, director of the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction; M. C. Koblentz, chief of the Division of Correction, and Dr. R. C. Anderson, acting commissioner of the Division of Mental Hygiene.

Most of the planning was done by Koblentz who originally requested a 15-million-dollar medical center to serve all Ohio penal institutions. This proposal led to the conferences and the medical center proposal was changed.

The plan now calls for the Division of Mental Hygiene to transfer to the Division of Correction the Lima State Hospital for the Criminally insane. Many inmates there have been transferred from prisons.

The institution now will officially become a psychiatric center for prisoners.

And the division will try to build another, medium security prison, instead of the medical center Koblentz originally wanted. That institution, about the same as one now being built near Lebanon for 12 million dollars, will cost from 12 to 15 million.

Koblentz said since plans will be similar to those at Lebanon it can be built in about two years. It took about one year to develop the plans for the Lebanon prison which will house about 1,500 inmates.

Koblentz thinks that after the Lima institution comes under his control, he will be able to send there up to 500 prisoners who need psychistric help.

Top priority in the construction program calls for spending $4,171,000 to finish the Lebanon institution by 1960 or 1961.

Other major construction projects call for spending $600,000 for two new buildings at Marysville Reformatory for Women, one a $250,000 school and activities building.

The progran also includes improvements at other institutions.

Lima State Hospital has more than 1,400 inmates. About 600 came from penal institutions. Another 250 are regular mental patients who would be transferred to mental hospitals now being built. The rest were sent to Lima by judges for observation or indefinite stays.

"We have several hundred prisoners at Ohio Penitentiary and elsewhere who could benefit from psychiatric treatment they could get at Lima—if they could get in," Koblentz said. "We also plan to do research work at Lima."

When the Lebanon institution is finished, about half of the 3,200 inmates at Mansfield Reformatory will be transferred there, making Lebanon a reformatory for southern Ohio. Mansfield's normal prison population is 1,800.

If and when a new institution is built—probably in north central Ohio—the rest of the Mansfield inmates could be transferred there.

This would enable Koblentz to turn Mansfield, with its 30-foot high walls, into another penitentiary. Some prisoners could be transferred there from the jammed Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus.

City Nurse Gets Grant Of $1,000

Miss Ethelyn Exley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Exley, 1633 Holliday St., is one of eight nurses to receive a $1,000 grant - in - aid from the Ohio State University School of Nursing, the university announced Thursday.

The award was made from a grant received last spring by the nursing school from the Sealantic Fund of New York to provide for continuation of work by nurses toward bachelor degrees. The fund was established by John D. Rockefeller Jr.

Miss Exley is a 1952 graduate of City Hospital School of Nursing.

She has had experience as a medical and surgical supervisor for sometime at the John Hopkins University Hospital in Baltimore, and attended the McCoy College of the university.

She has had experience at the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., and in Barnes Hospital in St. Louis, and is now working part-time at the University Hospital at Columbus and studying at the university's School of Nursing.

Convicted Of Evasion

CLEVELAND (AP) — Building contractor Elmer J. Benes was convicted Thursday night of evading $96,798 in income taxes in 1948-49. After a jury convicted him on two of three counts, his attorneys said an appeal would be filed. On each count the penalty could be a maximum of five years in prison and a fine of up to $5,000.

Story About A Scotsman

By EDDY GILMORE

DUBLIN (AP)—This is a story about a Scotsman who organized an airplane trip to Dublin to watch an Englishman direct an American in a film about Ireland on a location built by an Irish Jew.

The Scot is Jock MacGregor.

The Englishman, producer-director Michael Anderson.

The American, James Cagney.

The Irish Jew, Louis Elliman, who has constructed a miniature Hollywood 12 miles south of the Irish capital.

The film, "Shake Hands with the Devil."

It was a mad day, featured and interrupted by everything from Eamon de Valera to whispered suggestions of sabotage.

The morning began with a news conference in the skies, 16,000 feet above the Irish Sea. The conference was given by beautiful Dana Wynter, just in from California.

No cheesecake dummy, Miss Wynter discussed everything from medicine to mink with a degree of quick intelligence that stunned 47 British journalists asking the questions.

To one who queried, "Do you think that sex is here to stay?" Miss Wynter replied:

"Well, if it isn't, neither am I."

At Dublin Airport the chartered plane was met by kilted colleens playing bagpipes and beating drums.

This was followed by a conducted tour of Dublin.

"Here is the statue of that great Irish patriot, Charles Stewart Parnell," said the guide with a brogue as thick as a Liffey fog.

Cagney hove into view.

"My ancestors came from Cork," he said, "and I've come to the conclusion that I love Ireland."

He was followed by that talented Irish character actor, bearded Noel Purcell, noted for many roles. "Welcome to Ireland," roared Purcell.

Philadelphia-born Walter Seltzer, the producer, was host to a huge luncheon beneath a circus tent.

In the evening the Irish Tourist Board gave a reception. A reception by the Irish Tourist Board means the guests are on the receiving end of a large amount of Irish whisky.

Halfway through the pouring, an Irish girl started playing an Irish harp.

In the midst of her encore, De Valera arrived from Lourdes in an Irish airliner.

An airline official dashed in and announced the plane couldn't take off because "a part is missing."

"Sabotage," muttered someone.

Cerebral Palsy Group Hears Talk By Rehabilitated Victim

Problems of those afflicted with cerebral palsy were cited by Kenneth Smith of Salem at the meeting of the parental group of the Columbiana County Affiliate of the United Cerebral Palsy Association Wednesday night. Some 15 parents and members of the board attended the meeting in the clinic rooms at the Mary Patterson Memorial.

A former East Liverpool resident, he was the victim of the spastic type and he discussed his rehabilitation. He entered the speech therapy clinic at Kent State University and enrolled in the university, graduating in 1952 as a major in sociology.

He will continue his studies for a master's degree and took phychology at Youngstown University. He has been a case worker for the County Welfare Department for three years.

He advised the parents on how to treat afflicted children.

Smith commended the board and parental group for the therapy and help provided the children. Mrs. Donald Mahon, president, introduced the speaker.

Mrs. Richard Jones, board member, outlined plans for the nursery school to be inaugurated Oct. 7 under sponsorship of the East Liverpool Junior Women's Club, of which she is president.

A business session was held by the parents preceding the talk and Mrs. Wilma Jane Laughlin and Mrs. Eilene Wagner were received as new members.

Plans were made for a Halloween masquerade party Oct. 29 in the clinic rooms for patients and their families. Mrs. Mahon and Mrs. Martha Garren will be social chairman and Mrs. Garren will be responsible for securing films and a projector.

Named to the social committee for October were Mrs. Sylvia Weinbren and Mrs. Laughlin.

Reports of the secretary and treasurer were heard.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Clara Morgan and Mrs. Marilyn Wagner.

The next parents meeting will be Oct. 8.

Relief Groups Due State Aid More Quickly

City, County Units To Benefit As Result Of Change In Policy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — City and county relief agencies will be getting state financial aid faster as the result of a policy switch by the State Welfare Department.

At present, there is a lag of about two months between the time such agencies spend a relief dollar and get a matching dollar from state funds.

This was discussed at a meeting here Thursday between representatives of eight cities and Asst. State Relief Director Richard C. Minor. It was decided that the state would return to the old payment system, in effect until last January.

Minor said release of state funds under the old system basis of estimated need, rather than actual expenditures, should reduce the payment time lag by one month.

Local relief agencies, with recession-boosted relief rolls, are hard-pressed to find enough money to keep their programs going. The two-month lag in state aid has been a hardship, the agencies say.

Minor talked about the problem with officials of Dayton, Middletown, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Toledo, Columbus, Akron and Canton. He told them that two million dollars, which ordinarily would be distributed to relief agencies next year, will be distributed early this December to help them meet their bills.

Minor said state relief costs currently amount to two million dollars a month.

He added that he would confer with State Finance Director John Skipton today to see if an additional two million dollars could be obtained for relief expenditures this year.

Among cities submitting estimates of relief deficits, Hamilton's was set at $60,000 by the end of the year.

John Rush, Canton budget director, said that city has no money which can be transferred to replenish depleted relief-funds. He said city councilmen have been discussing the possibility of closing Canton's Welfare Department or laying off policemen to provide money for relief expenditures.

Final Reports Due Saturday In Civic Music

Final reports are due Saturday, by 4 p. m. if possible, Chairman Paul Blair today reminded workers assisting in the annual membership drive of the Civic Music Association.

The association offices are at 406 Market St.

Pointing out that the reciprocity arrangement has spurred interest in the concerts, the association today announced the program which has been lined up by the Warren (Ohio) Civic Music group.

These artists will appear at Warren: John Browning, pianist; Rosina Di Rimini, coloraturo; the Heidelberg, Germany, University Chorus; the National Symphonette, with Amparao Iturbi soloist; the National Symphony Orchestra of Washington, D. C., under the direction of Dr. Howard Mitchell, and Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo.

The dates for the appearances will be announced later.

The noted singer Rise Stevens already has been announced as one of the artists who will appear locally. The remainder of the concerts here are scheduled to be announced early next week.

McConnaughey And Reed

Ohio Attorney, Colleague Linked To Bribe Rumors

WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators are curious about a luncheon engagement between an Ohioan and a fellow lawyer. They say it figures in bribe rumors emanating lately from Washington.

The Ohioan is George C. McConnaughey, 62, a Columbus attorney. His luncheon companion was Earl F. Reed, then head of Television City, a firm which was trying at the time (1956) to get a television permit on channel 4 in Pittsburgh. McConnaughey was chairman of the Federal Communications Commission then.

What the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee finds important about this meeting is what was said about that permit. As it turned out, Television City and another applicant got it together.

A subcommittee staff member has said McConnaughey told him privately that Reed, during the luncheon, offered to steer some law business to the FCC chairman's son in Columbus.

And Reed's law partner, Lee W. Eckels, claims he has heard two rumors about McConnaughey, linking him to soliciting bribes from applicants in the case.

Eckels' statement, so far as is known, did not connect these rumors with having stemmed from the Reed-McConnaughey lunch.

But McConnaughey has indicated that such might have been the case. McConnaughey already has been asked about the lunch in open hearing by the subcommittee.

This is what he testified last spring after being asked what was discussed:

"Oh, nothing much. Mr. Reed talked a little bit about what good people the applicants (Television City) were.

"I did as I did in practically all instances—just as kind and gentle as I could—tried to get off on another subject. And if you go through those (things) you find that happened dozens of times."

Nothing was said in McConnaughey's sworn testimony about any attempt to influence him.

VA Official Clarifies Life Insurance Renewal

GI life insurance has not been re-opened for veterans who allowed their term policies to lapse after World War II, A. G. Bille, contact representative - in - charge of the Veterans Administration Office in Steubenville, said today.

The agency said the statement was prompted by many inquiries from World War II veterans seeking to get back their long - lapsed National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) term policies.

News of a congressional bill containing an amendment which would have provided for a general re - opening of NSLI to World War II veterans, was widely circulated in mid-August, Bille added.

But — VA emphasized — the bill was later changed to eliminate the NSLI re - opening provision.

Raft's Skipper, Family Reunited After 69 Days

HONOLULU (AP) — "You look just like Moses, daddy," exclaimed Tamara Baker as she, her sister Jacquetta and their mother were reunited Thursday with bearded DeVere Baker, skipper of the raft Lehi IV.

Baker and a four-man crew left California aboard the raft in mid-July and drifted 69 days to reach Hawaii Saturday.

Mrs. Nola Baker, Tamara, 18, and Jacquetta, 22, flew from San Francisco.

Won't Quit NATO, Athens Paper Says

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The influential Athens newspaper Kathimerini, which usually voices government views, said today Greece has no interest in pulling out of NATO in protest against the Cyprus partnership plan that Britain plans to apply on Oct. 1.

Kathimerini's comment was at variance with that of most Athens newspapers which have warned Greece might withdraw from NATO.

Oliver gave awards to James Stewart, wolf badget; Billy Monroe and Harry Brokaw, gold arrow and silver arrow; Bobby Griffith, bear badge, gold arrow and two silver arrows; Wayne Oakes, two silver arrows, and Sterling Hanselman, two-year perfect attendance pin.

Cubs entering scouting received gifts, including Eric Eccleston and Terry Calhoun, knife, fork and spoon; Sterling Hanselman and Blair Blythe, knife, and Harold Neville, compass.

Chester Lions Given Report On Bulb Sale

A total of 325 bags of light bulbs were sold in the annual Chester Lions Club sale, it was reported at a meeting of the club Thursday night.

Because only 25 bags of bulbs remained from the house-to-house drive Monday and Tuesday, a scheduled canvass last night was not held.

John Abrams, chairman of the sale, said the remainder will be placed on sale at the D'Angelo Shoe Repair shop at 4th St. and Carolina Ave.

Elmer Namy of the East Liverpool Child Counseling Center spoke on the activities of the center.

Anthony Tridico was installed as a new member in a ceremony conducted by Harry Lewis, past president. James Wallace, president, was in charge. The next meeting will be Oct. 9.

Tribute Paid T. H. Fisher In Resolution

The Board of Directors of the First National Bank at its meeting Thursday passed a resolution paying tribute to the late Thomas H. Fisher, who died July 17 after almost 70 years' association with the bank.

The resolution of respect will be included in the minutes of the bank and copies sent to Mr. Fisher's widow and his sister, Mrs. Maude L. McMurray.

It expressed sympathy and heartfelt sorrow to his family.

The resolution traced Mr. Fisher's career with First National, reviewing how he worked in each of the three buildings the institution has occupied and saw its assets grow from $200,000 in 1889 to more than $22 million at the time of his death.

Mr. Fisher started as a messenger when he was 16 at a yearly salary of $300 and held every position in the bank.

"These long services have placed the shareholders of the bank, and indeed the entire community, under a debt which can never be paid. His career continued over a period of years which is without parallel in this city and has few equals elsewhere.

"The growth of the bank during his administration was phenomenal to say the least. These things are a great source of pride to all of us."

The resolution was signed by Robert E. Boyce, president, an J. D. Thompson and William H. Vodrey Jr.

There are approximately 400 different religious denominations of all kinds meeting with regularity in the United States.

The cassowary, a flightless bird of Australia, has a call note that can be heard two miles away. Its call for its young sounds much like the lowing of a cow.

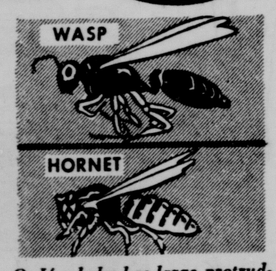
WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:
Better Health Through Knowledge

- Stings
- All Boys (Or Girls)
- Protruding Ears



Q. "Last summer I was stung by a wasp and became violently sick. Would the same thing happen if I am stung by a bee? —W.K."

A. Venom of the wasp, hornet, yellowjacket and honeybee contains a common poison. A person who reacts violently to the sting of one of these insects would probably react just as violently to the sting of the others. People who are known to be very sensitive to insect stings can be desensitized or made less reactive. Your doctor can give you all the information about how this is done.

Q. How do doctors account for some families having all boys and others all girls?

A. There is no satisfactory explanation. Age of the parents may have some slight effect. Young parents tend to have more boys than girls. The boy-girl difference levels off as the parents get older.

Q. If a baby has large protruding ears will it help to bind the ears back?

A. No, not according to a British doctor. Protruding ears can be corrected by surgery but plastic operation should not be performed until after the ears cease to grow. Even then the why's and wherefore's of an operation of this kind should be thoroughly discussed with the family physician.

Material in MEDICAL MIRROR is based on various scientific publications and does not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease requires the skill and knowledge which only a physician can apply by personally attending the patient.

Relief Groups Due State Aid More Quickly

City, County Units To Benefit As Result Of Change In Policy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — City and county relief agencies will be getting state financial aid faster as the result of a policy switch by the State Welfare Department.

At present, there is a lag of about two months between the time such agencies spend a relief dollar and get a matching dollar from state funds.

This was discussed at a meeting here Thursday between representatives of eight cities and Asst. State Relief Director Richard C. Minor. It was decided that the state would return to the old payment system, in effect until last January.

Minor said release of state funds under the old system basis of estimated need, rather than actual expenditures, should reduce the payment time lag by one month.

Local relief agencies, with recession-boosted relief rolls, are hard-pressed to find enough money to keep their programs going. The two-month lag in state aid has been a hardship, the agencies say.

Minor talked about the problem with officials of Dayton, Middletown, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Toledo, Columbus, Akron and Canton. He told them that two million dollars, which ordinarily would be distributed to relief agencies next year, will be distributed early this December to help them meet their bills.

Minor said state relief costs currently amount to two million dollars a month.

He added that he would confer with State Finance Director John Skipton today to see if an additional two million dollars could be obtained for relief expenditures this year.

Among cities submitting estimates of relief deficits, Hamilton's was set at $60,000 by the end of the year.

John Rush, Canton budget director, said that city has no money which can be transferred to replenish depleted relief-funds. He said city councilmen have been discussing the possibility of closing Canton's Welfare Department or laying off policemen to provide money for relief expenditures.

Final Reports Due Saturday In Civic Music

Final reports are due Saturday, by 4 p. m. if possible, Chairman Paul Blair today reminded workers assisting in the annual membership drive of the Civic Music Association.

The association offices are at 406 Market St.

Pointing out that the reciprocity arrangement has spurred interest in the concerts, the association today announced the program which has been lined up by the Warren (Ohio) Civic Music group.

These artists will appear at Warren: John Browning, pianist; Rosina Di Rimini, coloraturo; the Heidelberg, Germany, University Chorus; the National Symphonette, with Amparao Iturbi soloist; the National Symphony Orchestra of Washington, D. C., under the direction of Dr. Howard Mitchell, and Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo.

The dates for the appearances will be announced later.

The noted singer Rise Stevens already has been announced as one of the artists who will appear locally. The remainder of the concerts here are scheduled to be announced early next week.

McConnaughey And Reed

Ohio Attorney, Colleague Linked To Bribe Rumors

WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators are curious about a luncheon engagement between an Ohioan and a fellow lawyer. They say it figures in bribe rumors emanating lately from Washington.

The Ohioan is George C. McConnaughey, 62, a Columbus attorney. His luncheon companion was Earl F. Reed, then head of Television City, a firm which was trying at the time (1956) to get a television permit on channel 4 in Pittsburgh. McConnaughey was chairman of the Federal Communications Commission then.

What the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee finds important about this meeting is what was said about that permit. As it turned out, Television City and another applicant got it together.

A subcommittee staff member has said McConnaughey told him privately that Reed, during the luncheon, offered to steer some law business to the FCC chairman's son in Columbus.

And Reed's law partner, Lee W. Eckels, claims he has heard two rumors about McConnaughey, linking him to soliciting bribes from applicants in the case.

Eckels' statement, so far as is known, did not connect these rumors with having stemmed from the Reed-McConnaughey lunch.

But McConnaughey has indicated that such might have been the case. McConnaughey already has been asked about the lunch in open hearing by the subcommittee.

This is what he testified last spring after being asked what was discussed:

"Oh, nothing much. Mr. Reed talked a little bit about what good people the applicants (Television City) were.

"I did as I did in practically all instances—just as kind and gentle as I could—tried to get off on another subject. And if you go through those (things) you find that happened dozens of times."

Nothing was said in McConnaughey's sworn testimony about any attempt to influence him.

VA Official Clarifies Life Insurance Renewal

GI life insurance has not been re-opened for veterans who allowed their term policies to lapse after World War II, A. G. Bille, contact representative - in - charge of the Veterans Administration Office in Steubenville, said today.

The agency said the statement was prompted by many inquiries from World War II veterans seeking to get back their long - lapsed National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) term policies.

News of a congressional bill containing an amendment which would have provided for a general re - opening of NSLI to World War II veterans, was widely circulated in mid-August, Bille added.

But — VA emphasized — the bill was later changed to eliminate the NSLI re - opening provision.

Mrs. Nola Baker, Tamara, 18, and Jacquetta, 22, flew from San Francisco.

Won't Quit NATO, Athens Paper Says

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The influential Athens newspaper Kathimerini, which usually voices government views, said today Greece has no interest in pulling out of NATO in protest against the Cyprus partnership plan that Britain plans to apply on Oct. 1.

Kathimerini's comment was at variance with that of most Athens newspapers which have warned Greece might withdraw from NATO.

Chester Lions Given Report On Bulb Sale

A total of 325 bags of light bulbs were sold in the annual Chester Lions Club sale, it was reported at a meeting of the club Thursday night.

Because only 25 bags of bulbs remained from the house-to-house drive Monday and Tuesday, a scheduled canvass last night was not held.

John Abrams, chairman of the sale, said the remainder will be placed on sale at the D'Angelo Shoe Repair shop at 4th St. and Carolina Ave.

Elmer Namy of the East Liverpool Child Counseling Center spoke on the activities of the center.

Anthony Tridico was installed as a new member in a ceremony conducted by Harry Lewis, past president. James Wallace, president, was in charge. The next meeting will be Oct. 9.

Tribute Paid T. H. Fisher In Resolution

The Board of Directors of the First National Bank at its meeting Thursday passed a resolution paying tribute to the late Thomas H. Fisher, who died July 17 after almost 70 years' association with the bank.

The resolution of respect will be included in the minutes of the bank and copies sent to Mr. Fisher's widow and his sister, Mrs. Maude L. McMurray.

It expressed sympathy and heartfelt sorrow to his family.

The resolution traced Mr. Fisher's career with First National, reviewing how he worked in each of the three buildings the institution has occupied and saw its assets grow from $200,000 in 1889 to more than $22 million at the time of his death.

Mr. Fisher started as a messenger when he was 16 at a yearly salary of $300 and held every position in the bank.

"These long services have placed the shareholders of the bank, and indeed the entire community, under a debt which can never be paid. His career continued over a period of years which is without parallel in this city and has few equals elsewhere.

"The growth of the bank during his administration was phenomenal to say the least. These things are a great source of pride to all of us."

The resolution was signed by Robert E. Boyce, president, an J. D. Thompson and William H. Vodrey Jr.

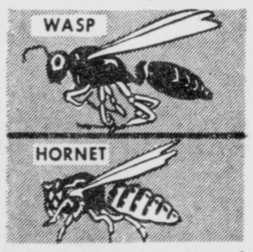
WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:
Better Health Through Knowledge

- Stings
- All Boys (Or Girls)
- Protruding Ears



Q. "Last summer I was stung by a wasp and became violently sick. Would the same thing happen if I am stung by a bee? —W.K."

A. Venom of the wasp, hornet, yellowjacket and honeybee contains a common poison. A person who reacts violently to the sting of one of these insects would probably react just as violently to the sting of the others. People who are known to be very sensitive to insect stings can be desensitized or made less reactive. Your doctor can give you all the information about how this is done.

Q. How do doctors account for some families having all boys and others all girls?

A. There is no satisfactory explanation. Age of the parents may have some slight effect. Young parents tend to have more boys than girls. The boy-girl difference levels off as the parents get older.

Q. If a baby has large protruding ears will it help to bind the ears back?

A. No, not according to a British doctor. Protruding ears can be corrected by surgery but plastic operation should not be performed until after the ears cease to grow. Even then the why's and wherefore's of an operation of this kind should be thoroughly discussed with the family physician.

Material in MEDICAL MIRROR is based on various scientific publications and does not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease requires the skill and knowledge which only a physician can apply by personally attending the patient.

Kickoff—7:45 p. m.
Place—Patterson Field.

In an effort to bolster East Liverpool's running game without calling on inexperienced bench strength, Coach Lou Venditti has juggled assignments of his battered gridders in preparation for tonight's game with New Philadelphia.

Kickoff time is 7:45 at Patterson Field.

Venditti's primary change was switching senior guard Nick Musuraca to right halfback with the offensive team and replacing the Potter All-Ohio candidate with Charlie Davidson, 165-pound junior lineman.

The rugged Musuraca, probably the fastest man on the Potter roster, sat out the opening game with Akron St. Vincent because of a bruised shoulder, but returned to the lineup last week against Toledo Libbey and his line play indicated that the injury was completely healed.

Venditti pointed out that Musuraca had played halfback when a freshman and has the speed and power to team with the other three regulars in giving the Potters a running game with plenty of punch.

Most of the Potter squad came out of last week's scuffle with Toledo Libbey in fair condition.

While Musuraca probably will start with the offensive unit, he also will rotate at the halfback spot with John Goodballet, thereby giving Venditti a seasoned performer when needed.

Joe Leigh, 175-pound senior center, and Tim Archer, 150 - pound sophomore end, were ill this week with a slight touch of the flu but will probably be ready for action tonight if needed, Venditti said.

End Ron Prince and quarterback Bob Mackall were also battered in the Toledo game, but are in top condition for tonight's game. Prince will team with Pat Cooper at the terminals. Ever-dependable Mike Kapp and Carl Ludwig will draw the tackle assignments and Jim Bise and Davidson will get the call at guards. Leigh will be at center.

The Potters running game is expected to be at its peak tonight with the return to the lineup of fullback Bill O'Neil, who missed the Toledo game with an injured ankle. His absence was reflected in the statistics as most of the running chores fell on halfback Dave Zelch, who mnaged to buck and twist his way for a total of 102 yards in 22 carries.

New Philly will bring a squad to East Liverpool that has lost its first two games. But, as the record shows, the Quakers are always tough and they will have eight lettermen on the starting team.

New Philly lost its opener, 16-6, to Jackson, but gave Canton Timken a tough battle before losing, 6-0, last week. William Kidd is beginning his 11th year as head football coach at the Tuscarawas County school.

Round Table Bids Again Saturday For Money Mark

By The Associated Press

Round Table makes another attempt Saturday to top Nashua and become the world's No. 1 money winning thoroughbred.

The hard-hitting 4-year old from Travis M. Kerr's Oklahoma-owned stable goes in the mile and one-quarter of the $100,000 added Woodward at Belmont Park needing $25,451 to reach his goal. Nashua earned $1,288,565 before he retired.

Twice this month Round Table has had a golden opportunity to become the world's richest horse. And twice he failed because of Clem, a consistent performer owned by Mrs. Adele Rand of Santa Fe, N.M.

The Woodward, however, could well be a different story for this time Clem carries equal weight with Round Table. In the Washington Park handicap, Clem received 21 pounds from the Table and in the United Nations handicap at Atlantic City he had an advantage of 17. Round Table was fourth in the Washington Park 'Cap and second in the U.N.

The last winning season for the University of New Hampshire came in 1954 when the Wildcats compiled a 7-1 record.

Tigers Could Be 'Spoilers' Again Tonight

The Wellsville Tigers have another chance to spoil a Chester victory streak when the Panthers invade Nicholson Stadium tonight for the 26th meeting of the two football rivals.

Last year when the two teams met, a powerful Chester eleven—unbeaten and unscored on — lost a 19-13 decision to a winless Wellsville squad.

Again this year the Panthers are unbeaten, with a tie the only blemish on their record, and Wellsville has lost its first two games.

Both teams should be at full strength when the game gets under way at 8. Fullback Don Shaw's injured ankle appears mended and he should be back in the starting lineup after sitting out last week's Chester game against Beaver Local.

Pete Dudgeon, the 165-pound Panther tackle who suffered a knee injury in pre - season drills, saw action for the first time last week when he was used sparingly against the Beavers. Coach Amedeo calls Dudgeon a "rugged defensive man" and he could be a stumbling block to Wellsville backs if he is able to go all the way.

Wellsville has a slight weight edge with 245-pound tackle Ralph "Jiggers" Wagner spearheading the Tiger forward wall, but the Panthers have a trio of hard-running backs in Shaw, Bill Mayhew and Ken Sayre.

In addition, Chester boasts a good passing game, with quarterback Dave Brookes doing the tossing to two capable receivers in ends Bob Shaffer and Larry Murray.

To date, the aerial game has been Wellsville's greatest asset. Quarterback Bob Kiggans has hit end Bob Brown on several occasions for good pickups, especially in the opener against Austintown Fitch.

Junior fullback Bob Delposen has been the most consistent ground gainer for the Tigers, with halfback Pat Creaturo getting loose for long dashes at times.

The Tigers hold a five - game edge in the series which dates back to 1920. Wellsville has won 15 games to 10 for Chester. There have been no ties.

In the last seven years, Wellsville has beaten Chester five times, with the Panthers notching only one victory. The two teams did not meet in 1956.

The last time Chester was able to put together two consecutive wins was in 1949-50 when they beat the Tigers, 13-0, and, 6-0, respectively.

A five - game victory streak is the longest of the series, and it was recorded by Wellsville from 1951 to 1956.

The high score of the series came in 1952 when a powerful Bengal unit downed Chester, 47-6.

Amedeo, now in his fifth year as head mentor at Chester, will be seeking his second victory over Wellsville. The only Amedeo eleven to turn the trick was the 1955 team which notched a 27-0 triumph.

Wellsville coach Ken Wood is still looking for his first victory since taking over the Tiger reins this season.

Gridder Snags Pass —But Runs Wrong Way

SPRINGFIELD, Colo. (AP) — Butch Woods, Springfield High School back, leaped high into the air, snagged a Walsh pass and ran 47 yards into his own end zone Thursday night.

He also scored three touchdowns and added an extra point for Springfield but his wrong-way interception run gave Walsh a safety. The game ended 53-2.

The two points are all that have been scored against Springfield High this season as the Longhorns ran their scoring to 166 points in winning four games in a row.

2 Changes Announced In Chester Grid Slate

Two changes have been announced in Chester High School's football schedule for this season. The Panthers game with Warwood has been re - scheduled for Oct. 4 instead of the Oct. 3, and the Powhatan game set for Saturday afternoon, Oct. 25, at 2:30, instead of Oct. 24, Principal R. M. McFarland announced.

DOUBLE PLAY IN THE MAKING. Frank Bolling (2) of the Tigers is forced at second on the front end of a double play in the first inning of the game against the White Sox Thursday in Chicago. Throwing the ball is shortstop Sammy Esposito, who took the throw from second baseman Nellie Fox. (UPI Telephoto)

Batting Races Watched As 1958 Season Nears End

By The Associated Press

Willie Mays goes into the final three days of the National League batting race tonight with a .273 average. Richie Ashburn has a .185 mark.

In the American League, leader Pete Runnels is batting .222. Ted Williams, the runnerup, is at .235.

Those aren't typographical errors. That's the way the fighting four have hit thus far against the clubs they'll be facing when the season closes this weekend, and in the parks where they'll be swinging.

For the record, Mays leads the NL race with a .3458 average as his Giants play the St. Louis Cardinals in three at San Francisco. Ashburn is second at .3439 as he and the Phillies open a three-game finale at Pittsburgh.

Runnels is batting .324, while Williams, his Boston teammate, has a .320 average as the Red Sox open a four-game series at Washington tonight.

Mays, 27, has hit Cardinal pitching at a .359 clip for the season with 28 hits in 78 at bats. But while he batted .422 in the 11-game series at St. Louis, he's had only a .273 average against the Cards in eight games at San Francisco.

Ashburn, 31, is batting .314 against the Pirates for the season, with 22 hits in 71 at bats. He hit .386 against the Bucs in their 11 games at Philadelphia, but he's hit only .185 — five hits in 27 at bats—at Pittsburgh.

Runnels, 30, picked up from Washington last January for Norm Zauchin and Albie Pearson, has batted .373 against his old mates for the season — swinging for a dandy .475 mark in 11 games at Boston, but managing only a .222 average at Washington.

Williams, 40, the defending champ shooting for his sixth title, is batting .327 against Washington for the season. He was .375 against the Senators at Boston, but is hitting only .235 at Washington with four hits in 17 at bats.

Stan Musial of the Cards, the defending champ who has won seven titles, is the closest competitor to Mays and Ashburn. Musial is third at .336.

Harvey Kuenn of Detroit is third in the American League race. He's hitting .316 after losing a point with a 1-for-4 job as the Tigers beat the Chicago White Sox 7-1 in the only game scheduled in the majors Thursday.

Stanky Returns To Cardinals In Front Office Job

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The return of former Manager Eddie Stanky to the St. Louis Cardinals in a front office capacity, another step in a high level reorganization of the club, was made official Thursday night.

The club announced that Stanky, coach of the Cleveland Indians for the past two seasons, will have the title of "assistant on player personnel." His job will be to scout and evaluate major and minor league player talent.

Still to be announced, but regarded as a certainty, is the designation of Solly Hemus as successor to the recently-fired manager, Fred Hutchinson.

Covington's On Milwaukee Doubtful List

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney could probably announce his World Series opening game lineup today if only he were assured of the physical fitness of Wes Covington, the Braves' hard-hitting left fielder.

Unfortunately, Haney will not know for certain the condition of Covington's ailing left knee until Sunday or Monday at the earliest. The left-handed slugger, hobbled by poor underpinnings practially all season, is scheduled to undergo an extensive examination of the damage knee within the next few days. Wes also is plagued by a pulled muscle in his right thigh.

There is a possibility that the knee will have to be drained once more before the start of the series. Until the past month, the draining took place twice a week. In the last four weeks, according to Haney, Covington's knee has had to be drained only once a week.

"Usually after the draining," Haney said, "I've had to rest him a day because the knee becomes sore. Should the knee have to be drained again, I suppose we'd be better off if I did not play him against a left-handed pitcher."

The New York Yankees have not as yet announced their first game pitcher, but Haney, like many others, assumes it will be southpaw Whitey Ford.

Student Seating Plan For Game Disclosed

An announcement concerning student seating arrangements for tonight's football game between East Liverpool and New Philadelphia at Patterson Field has been given by Merrill Hall, athletic director of the local high school. Hall said "students are to use sections 9 and 10 only in the stadium. These two sections are to be entered at the north end and only those with reserved seats and youngsters accompanied by parents are permitted in the other sections." Hall added for "students not to stand in front of the student bleachers and that the track in front of the stadium will be closed to students". Adults using general admission seats have been asked to use the south end of the stadium to give the students more room in their sections.

Moore To Defend Title On Dec. 10 Against Durelle

MONTREAL (AP) — Ancient Archie Moore, whose age ranges in various estimates from 41 to 49 years, will defend his light heavyweight boxing title for the seventh time on Dec. 10 against durable Yvon Durelle, the New Brunswick fisherman.

Articles for the 15-round televised scrap were signed Thursday. Moore, who recently admitted he was 49 although the books list him as 45 and some say 41, will get $100,000. Durelle will receive a guarantee of $12,000 or 20 per cent of the net gate.

Archie, who last defended his title against Tony Anthony Sept. 27, 1957, checked in for the signing ceremonies weighing 192 pounds — so he said. Others thought he weighed quite a bit more.

But, as usual, Moore said he wouldn't have any trouble getting down to the 175-pound limit. Durelle, 28, the British Empire light heavy king, looked much more rugged and closer to fighting condition.

Writer Expects Yankees To Capture Series In 5

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—This writer expects the New York Yankees to bounce back and defeat the Milwaukee Braves in a five-game 1958 World Series.

To win in the maximum seven games last year, the Braves had to get 24 consecutive shutout innings and three victories from Lew Burdette, plus a couple of sensational catches by left fielder Wes Covington and a dramatic 10th inning homer by Ed Mathews in the fourth game that evened the series, 2-2.

The Yankees were below par physically. First baseman Bill Skowron missed most of the series with a leg injury. He was replaced by Harry Simpson, who managed one hit in 12 times at bat and Elston Howard, a comparative newcomer to the position.

A lame shoulder kept Mickey Mantle out of one game and a leg ailment hampered him in most of the others.

The Yankees are stronger than they were a year ago. Bob Turley is a vastly improved pitcher. Ryne Duren is a better reliever than either Bob Grim or Tommy Byrne.

Tony Kubek has settled down nicely at shortstop after flubbing a couple of pivotal plays as a third baseman in the '57 series. And Norm Siebern, the New York left fielder, can cover more ground than veteran Enos Slaughter, who started several games last year.

The Yankees will have played 155 regular season games—one tie—by the time the series opens in Milwaukee next Wednesday. But nowhere in the 1958 season were they called upon to play a crucial game or series in the runaway American League race.

The Braves, with probably a stronger club than 1957, are well equipped to give the Yanks another rough time.

But it's our opinion that Casey Stengel's men will be up for this one with Skowron producing most of the timely hits and Don Larsen turning in the best pitching.

Willie Mays goes into the final three days of the National League batting race tonight with a .273 average. Richie Ashburn has a .185 mark.

In the American League, leader Pete Runnels is batting .222. Ted Williams, the runnerup, is at .235.

Those aren't typographical errors. That's the way the fighting four have hit thus far against the clubs they'll be facing when the season closes this weekend, and in the parks where they'll be swinging.

For the record, Mays leads the NL race with a .3458 average as his Giants play the St. Louis Cardinals in three at San Francisco. Ashburn is second at .3439 as he and the Phillies open a three-game finale at Pittsburgh.

Runnels is batting .324, while Williams, his Boston teammate, has a .320 average as the Red Sox open a four-game series at Washington tonight.

Mays, 27, has hit Cardinal pitching at a .359 clip for the season with 28 hits in 78 at bats. But while he batted .422 in the 11-game series at St. Louis, he's had only a .273 average against the Cards in eight games at San Francisco.

Ashburn, 31, is batting .314 against the Pirates for the season, with 22 hits in 71 at bats. He hit .386 against the Bucs in their 11 games at Philadelphia, but he's hit only .185 — five hits in 27 at bats—at Pittsburgh.

Runnels, 30, picked up from Washington last January for Norm Zauchin and Albie Pearson, has batted .373 against his old mates for the season — swinging for a dandy .475 mark in 11 games at Boston, but managing only a .222 average at Washington.

Williams, 40, the defending champ shooting for his sixth title, is batting .327 against Washington for the season. He was .375 against the Senators at Boston, but is hitting only .235 at Washington with four hits in 17 at bats.

Stan Musial of the Cards, the defending champ who has won seven titles, is the closest competitor to Mays and Ashburn. Musial is third at .336.

Harvey Kuenn of Detroit is third in the American League race. He's hitting .316 after losing a point with a 1-for-4 job as the Tigers beat the Chicago White Sox 7-1 in the only game scheduled in the majors Thursday.

Stanky Returns To Cardinals In Front Office Job

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The return of former Manager Eddie Stanky to the St. Louis Cardinals in a front office capacity, another step in a high level reorganization of the club, was made official Thursday night.

The club announced that Stanky, coach of the Cleveland Indians for the past two seasons, will have the title of "assistant on player personnel." His job will be to scout and evaluate major and minor league player talent.

Still to be announced, but regarded as a certainty, is the designation of Solly Hemus as successor to the recently-fired manager, Fred Hutchinson.

Covington's On Milwaukee Doubtful List

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney could probably announce his World Series opening game lineup today if only he were assured of the physical fitness of Wes Covington, the Braves' hard-hitting left fielder.

Unfortunately, Haney will not know for certain the condition of Covington's ailing left knee until Sunday or Monday at the earliest. The left-handed slugger, hobbled by poor underpinnings practially all season, is scheduled to undergo an extensive examination of the damage knee within the next few days. Wes also is plagued by a pulled muscle in his right thigh.

There is a possibility that the knee will have to be drained once more before the start of the series. Until the past month, the draining took place twice a week. In the last four weeks, according to Haney, Covington's knee has had to be drained only once a week.

"Usually after the draining," Haney said, "I've had to rest him a day because the knee becomes sore. Should the knee have to be drained again, I suppose we'd be better off if I did not play him against a left-handed pitcher."

The New York Yankees have not as yet announced their first game pitcher, but Haney, like many others, assumes it will be southpaw Whitey Ford.

Student Seating Plan For Game Disclosed

An announcement concerning student seating arrangements for tonight's football game between East Liverpool and New Philadelphia at Patterson Field has been given by Merrill Hall, athletic director of the local high school. Hall said "students are to use sections 9 and 10 only in the stadium. These two sections are to be entered at the north end and only those with reserved seats and youngsters accompanied by parents are permitted in the other sections." Hall added for "students not to stand in front of the student bleachers and that the track in front of the stadium will be closed to students". Adults using general admission seats have been asked to use the south end of the stadium to give the students more room in their sections.

Moore To Defend Title On Dec. 10 Against Durelle

MONTREAL (AP) — Ancient Archie Moore, whose age ranges in various estimates from 41 to 49 years, will defend his light heavyweight boxing title for the seventh time on Dec. 10 against durable Yvon Durelle, the New Brunswick fisherman.

Articles for the 15-round televised scrap were signed Thursday. Moore, who recently admitted he was 49 although the books list him as 45 and some say 41, will get $100,000. Durelle will receive a guarantee of $12,000 or 20 per cent of the net gate.

Archie, who last defended his title against Tony Anthony Sept. 27, 1957, checked in for the signing ceremonies weighing 192 pounds — so he said. Others thought he weighed quite a bit more.

But, as usual, Moore said he wouldn't have any trouble getting down to the 175-pound limit. Durelle, 28, the British Empire light heavy king, looked much more rugged and closer to fighting condition.

Writer Expects Yankees To Capture Series In 5

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—This writer expects the New York Yankees to bounce back and defeat the Milwaukee Braves in a five-game 1958 World Series.

To win in the maximum seven games last year, the Braves had to get 24 consecutive shutout innings and three victories from Lew Burdette, plus a couple of sensational catches by left fielder Wes Covington and a dramatic 10th inning homer by Ed Mathews in the fourth game that evened the series, 2-2.

The Yankees were below par physically. First baseman Bill Skowron missed most of the series with a leg injury. He was replaced by Harry Simpson, who managed one hit in 12 times at bat and Elston Howard, a comparative newcomer to the position.

A lame shoulder kept Mickey Mantle out of one game and a leg ailment hampered him in most of the others.

The Yankees are stronger than they were a year ago. Bob Turley is a vastly improved pitcher. Ryne Duren is a better reliever than either Bob Grim or Tommy Byrne.

Tony Kubek has settled down nicely at shortstop after flubbing a couple of pivotal plays as a third baseman in the '57 series. And Norm Siebern, the New York left fielder, can cover more ground than veteran Enos Slaughter, who started several games last year.

The Yankees will have played 155 regular season games—one tie—by the time the series opens in Milwaukee next Wednesday. But nowhere in the 1958 season were they called upon to play a crucial game or series in the runaway American League race.

The Braves, with probably a stronger club than 1957, are well equipped to give the Yanks another rough time.

But it's our opinion that Casey Stengel's men will be up for this one with Skowron producing most of the timely hits and Don Larsen turning in the best pitching.

College Football To Swing Into Full Schedule Of Games

Intersectional Contests Will Hold Spotlight

By The Associated Press

The big boys step into the spotlight this weekend as the college football season swings into a full schedule of games.

Some key intersectional games will test the strength of the top-rated teams.

Tonight, in Miami's Orange Bowl, Big Ten darkhorse Wisconsin meets the Miami Hurricanes.

The Badgers, in their first trip South, are rated No. 14 in this week's Associated Press poll. The Hurricanes are No. 15.

Also tonight, Georgia Tech, a 13-0 upset victim of Kentucky last week, meets Florida State (2-0). Detroit (1-0) goes to the Air Force Academy, where Ben Martin opens his first game as Falcons' coach. Denver (0-1) is at Utah State (0-1) in the other top game.

One of the big attractions Saturday pits No. 1 ranked Ohio State, 1957 Big Ten champ, against Southern Methodist, ranked 20th. Don Meredith's passing poses a challenge for the running of Bob White and Don Clark for the Ohioans.

Second-ranked Oklahoma takes on a toughie at home against West Virginia, 13th, which last week beat Richmond 66-22. Defending national champion Auburn (No. 3) plays Tennessee in the national television game.

Notre Dame (No. 5) opens with neighbor Indiana. The Irish are a four-touchdown favorite. Fourth-ranked Michigan State plays host to California, a 24-20 loser to College of the Pacific last week.

In the East, Pitt (No. 7) plays Holy Cross in an early battle for the Lambert Trophy, while Army (No. 8) meets the Atlantic Coast Conference's South Carolina, 8-0 conquerer of Duke last week.

Boston College (1-0) is at Syracuse. Princeton and Rutgers continue a rivalry that began in 1868, the oldest in the country.

In the South, Mississippi (No. 9) takes on Kentucky, 2-0 and unscored on, at Memphis. Navy begins its season against William & Mary, while 11th-ranked Mississippi State plays 18th ranked Florida (1-0).

Texas Christian (No. 6) journey's to Iowa hoping to add to its 1-0 record, while 10th ranked Washington States comes out of the Far West to play Northwestern. Illinois entertains UCLA, Purdue travels to Nebraska and Minnesota meets Washington.

Band To Feature Dance At Halftime Show

East Liverpool's Marching Band will assist in homecoming festivities at the Potter - New Phliadelphia football game tonight at 7:45 at Patterson Field. During its halftime show, the band will pay tribute to the newly - crowned queen and her court with a precision dance routine entitled "Pep and Pomp." The majorettes will also be featured in a selection of "Side by Side."

Dozen Undefeated Ohio College Teams To Meet

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's collegiate football season is taking shape early—separating the men from the boys.

As the teams go into second round games this weekend, a dozen unbeaten teams are due to meet each other.

The first one pops up tonight as Wittenberg, 41-7 winner over DePauw, goes against host Marietta, 25-12 victor over West Virginia Wesleyan. It's an Ohio Conference fray, and defending co-champion Wittenberg must win it to stay in the current race.

Saturday's slate is replete with big ones, in addition to Ohio State's opener against Southern Methodist.

The Mid - American Conference offers Western Michigan against Miami's defending champions at Oxford, and Toledo against Ohio U. at Athens. Both Ohio U. and Toledo won impressive openers, but Miami is going into its first game.

The Ohio Conference has unbeaten Akron and Muskingum meeting at New Concord; unbeaten Ohio Wesleyan and Heidelberg at Tiffin; unbeaten Denison against once-tied Otterbein at Westerville; victorious Wooster against Kenyon in the Lords' opener; Oberlin at Hiram in the inaugural for each, and Capital's untested Lutherans against once-beaten Mount Union.

A full Mid-Ohio loop slate sends Defiance (1-0) against Findlay's once-tied Oilers, Ashland (0-1) against Wilmington (0-1), and Bluffton (1-1) against Ohio Northern in the Polar Bear's initial kick-off.

Wichita, (20-14 loser to Bowling Green last week, invades Cincinnati for the Bearcats' Missouri Valley opener. Dayton, which bowed 14-0 to Cincinnati in the first tilt, entertains Richmond, Va.

Other non-loop frays send Morgan State against Central State, Youngstown against New Haven State, Kent State against Baldwin Wallace, and Lockbourne Air Force Base of near Columbus against Bowling Green.

Athens Honors Finsterwald But Palmer Big Star

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — PGA champion Dow Finsterwald has received almost all the honors his home town here could bestow upon him.

But it was during Thursday's celebration that fellow golfer and Masters champion Arnold Palmer walked off with one of Finsterwald's records.

In a four-man match at the Athens Country Club, Palmer blazed a 62 to break Finsterwald's course record of 63 set in 1953. Finsterwald shot a four-under-par 68 over the 6,382-yard layout.

Palmer teamed up with Columbus amateur Jackie Nicklaus, who also carded 68, to win a best-ball match against Finsterwald and Gallipolis amateur Howard Baker Saunders. The latter, a six-time Southeastern Ohio Golf Assn. champ, posted a 71.

At the start of the day-long celebration, the 28-year-old Finsterwald, his wife, Linda, and their twins, Ted and Jean, who will soon be 2, toured the city in a motorcade. At Ohio University, where Finsterwald graduated in 1952, he was presented the keys of the city and honors from the university.

At a banquet attended by 300 persons, a life-size photograph was unveiled of Finsterwald holding the PGA championship trophy which he won this summer.

William Way's Surprise Winner In 'Jug' Review

CLEVELAND (AP)—The surprise winner of the silverware in the Little Brown Jug Review at Northfield Thursday night was William Way, the only starter who did not compete in last week's Brown Jug race.

William Way took the second heat after finishing fourth in the opening mile.

The Jug winner, Shadow Wave, was not at Northfield, but Thorpe Hanover, twice second in the pacing classic for three-year-olds at Delaware, Ohio, won Thursday night's first heat in the track record time of 2:02.

However, Thorpe Hanover broke stride and was sixth and last in the final mile.

Kerwin-Ryff Bout Slated For Capital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Canadian welterweight champion Gale Kerwin tries to improve his standing in this country tonight when he faces Frankie Ryff in a 10-round bout in Capital Arena.

The odds, though slight, are against him.

Ryff, a Bronx lightweight, is a 7-5 favorite.

Friday night faithful across the country will have a chance to see not only the battlers in the televised show (NBC, 9 p.m. EST) but also the managerial bow of Barney Ross.

Ross, former welter and lightweight champion, took over Ryff two months ago. With his own second of the 1930s, Whitey Bimstein, Ross has been prepping Frankie for a crack at the national rankings.

Ryff was once highly rated, but lost standing when opponents discovered that repeated taps on his brow would open old wounds.

After an eight-month layoff, during which he underwent forehead repairs, Ryff returned to action last December and has taken five straight decisions. A pro since 1951, he has won 26 and lost 5. He has knocked out three, but none since his freshman year.

Kerwin, who started boxing professionally in 1954, has won 28, dropped 7 and had 1 draw. He took the Canadian welter title three weeks ago by stopping Cliff Fiddler on a 12th round TKO.

Cleveland Could Finish In Third Place Or Sixth

CLEVELAND (AP)—When the Cleveland Indians hang up their spikes at season's end Sunday, they could be in third place—or in sixth.

Only 2½ games separate third-place Detroit from sixth - place Baltimore. Cleveland and the Boston Red Sox are tied for fourth, a half-game down from the Tigers.

The Tribe must win two of their final three games with Detroit here this weekend to stay in contention for third place.

Manager Joe Gordon has nominated Don Ferrarese to open against the Tigers' Billy Hoeft tonight. Saturday, Cal McLish will take the hill for Cleveland, opposing Paul Foyback.

Saumell Rides Two Winners At Waterford

Jockey Francisco Saumell strengthened his lead in the two-way race for leading riding honors at Waterford Park Thursday by booting home two winners, including the second half of the daily double.

The number combination of 3 and 4 paid $51.00. Gold Imperial won the first race with Jockey Nick Fernicola aboard and paid $16, $5.60 and $5.40 and Saumell brought Charlotte War to the wire in the second race. She paid $5.20, $4.20 and $2.80.

Saumell's two winners gave him a total of 24 for the first 16 days of the 48 - day fall meet. In second place is Vic Bovine who failed to ride a winner Thursday. Bovine has a total of 21. Both jockeys are far ahead of their competitors with Oliver Cutshaw, in third place, with only 9 while Fernicola has 8.

Redlegs' Rookie Hurler Will Face Big Test Tonight

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Cincinnati's Redlegs have a strong and promising young southpaw named O'Toole who faces the stiffest kind of major league test.

Jim O'Toole, 21-year-old, 6-foot son of a Chicago policeman, starts against Milwaukee's National League champs tonight under the close scrutiny of Redleg brass.

O'Toole's record with Nashville of the Southern Assn. this season makes him the hottest young prospect in recent years.

He stacked up 20 victories against 8 losses while making an earned run mark of 2.44. And he pitched 20 complete games.

He'll be opposed tonight by Lew Burdette, veteran righthander who is usually a prime Redleg troublemaker and is now 3-2 against Cincinnati for the season.

Bassey-Moore Match Likely

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World-featherweight champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey will defend his title in Los Angeles — barring some unforeseen obstacle — against Davey Moore of Springfield, Ohio, in December.

The 23-year-old Moore, the No. 1 contender, earned the title match Thursday night when he decisively outpointed Kid Anahuac of Mexico City in 10 rounds at the Olympic Auditorium.

The Springfield rifle never lost a round and was never pressed in whipping the contender from Mexico. Moore weighed 129, Anahuac 127.

Watching the fight were Bassey and his manager from England, George Biddles.

"Moore is a strong and very good fighter," said Bassey.

Biddles and Moore's manager, Willie Ketchum, conferred briefly with matchmaker George Parnassus after the fight.

Biddles gave strong indication that Moore will be Bassey's next opponent for the title.

Moore and Anahuac fought in July in Tijuana to a split decision which brought on a riot. There was no riot and no split decision Thursday night.

Anahuac backtracked all the way, but in the ninth Moore caught him with a solid right to the chin for the only knockdown of the evening.

Palestine Pilots Club To Sponsor Air Show

EAST PALESTINE — The Pilots Club will hold an air show Sunday from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. at Kerner's Airport near Petersburg.

The main feature will be parachute jumps by members of the Cleveland Chapter of the Parachute Chapter of the Parachute Club of America. The program also will include stunt flying, bomb dropping and spot landing contests.

In event of rain, the event will be held Oct. 5.

Columbia's Heavy Pick To Capture Cup

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Unless Columbia is swallowed by a whale almost everyone along the America's Cup waterfront expects her to win the 107-year-old trophy today with the greatest of ease.

The American defender has shown complete superiority over Sceptre, the British challenger.

She's piled up her 3-0 margin in the best-of-seven series with victories in light, moderate and heavy air. Even when a fourth race was called because the yachts couldn't finish within the time limit, Columbia was a mile ahead.

Even the British have now conceded publicly that Columbia is the faster boat.

When asked if Columbia were the superior boat, Sceptre's assistant helmsman, Colin Ratsey, answered simply:

"I would say so."

Neither crew had been willing to say so until Sceptre sailed in the heavy winds she expected to find in the Atlantic off here in September. Sceptre had her blow Thursday and Columbia crossed the finish line a mile and a quarter ahead.

"We got what we asked for and the results proved we were probably wrong," said Colin Ratsey, Sceptre's assistant helmsman.

American designers, noting Sceptre's chesty hull compared with the knife-edge prows of American 12-meter yachts, had said, "If they're right we're wrong."

College Football To Swing Into Full Schedule Of Games

Intersectional Contests Will Hold Spotlight

By The Associated Press

The big boys step into the spotlight this weekend as the college football season swings into a full schedule of games.

Some key intersectional games will test the strength of the top-rated teams.

Tonight, in Miami's Orange Bowl, Big Ten darkhorse Wisconsin meets the Miami Hurricanes.

The Badgers, in their first trip South, are rated No. 14 in this week's Associated Press poll. The Hurricanes are No. 15.

Also tonight, Georgia Tech, a 13-0 upset victim of Kentucky last week, meets Florida State (2-0). Detroit (1-0) goes to the Air Force Academy, where Ben Martin opens his first game as Falcons' coach. Denver (0-1) is at Utah State (0-1) in the other top game.

One of the big attractions Saturday pits No. 1 ranked Ohio State, 1957 Big Ten champ, against Southern Methodist, ranked 20th. Don Meredith's passing poses a challenge for the running of Bob White and Don Clark for the Ohioans.

Second-ranked Oklahoma takes on a toughie at home against West Virginia, 13th, which last week beat Richmond 66-22. Defending national champion Auburn (No. 3) plays Tennessee in the national television game.

Notre Dame (No. 5) opens with neighbor Indiana. The Irish are a four-touchdown favorite. Fourth-ranked Michigan State plays host to California, a 24-20 loser to College of the Pacific last week.

In the East, Pitt (No. 7) plays Holy Cross in an early battle for the Lambert Trophy, while Army (No. 8) meets the Atlantic Coast Conference's South Carolina, 8-0 conquerer of Duke last week.

Boston College (1-0) is at Syracuse. Princeton and Rutgers continue a rivalry that began in 1868, the oldest in the country.

In the South, Mississippi (No. 9) takes on Kentucky, 2-0 and unscored on, at Memphis. Navy begins its season against William & Mary, while 11th-ranked Mississippi State plays 18th ranked Florida (1-0).

Texas Christian (No. 6) journey's to Iowa hoping to add to its 1-0 record, while 10th ranked Washington States comes out of the Far West to play Northwestern. Illinois entertains UCLA, Purdue travels to Nebraska and Minnesota meets Washington.

Band To Feature Dance At Halftime Show

East Liverpool's Marching Band will assist in homecoming festivities at the Potter - New Phliadelphia football game tonight at 7:45 at Patterson Field. During its halftime show, the band will pay tribute to the newly - crowned queen and her court with a precision dance routine entitled "Pep and Pomp." The majorettes will also be featured in a selection of "Side by Side."

Dozen Undefeated Ohio College Teams To Meet

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's collegiate football season is taking shape early—separating the men from the boys.

As the teams go into second round games this weekend, a dozen unbeaten teams are due to meet each other.

The first one pops up tonight as Wittenberg, 41-7 winner over DePauw, goes against host Marietta, 25-12 victor over West Virginia Wesleyan. It's an Ohio Conference fray, and defending co-champion Wittenberg must win it to stay in the current race.

Saturday's slate is replete with big ones, in addition to Ohio State's opener against Southern Methodist.

The Mid - American Conference offers Western Michigan against Miami's defending champions at Oxford, and Toledo against Ohio U. at Athens. Both Ohio U. and Toledo won impressive openers, but Miami is going into its first game.

The Ohio Conference has unbeaten Akron and Muskingum meeting at New Concord; unbeaten Ohio Wesleyan and Heidelberg at Tiffin; unbeaten Denison against once-tied Otterbein at Westerville; victorious Wooster against Kenyon in the Lords' opener; Oberlin at Hiram in the inaugural for each, and Capital's untested Lutherans against once-beaten Mount Union.

A full Mid-Ohio loop slate sends Defiance (1-0) against Findlay's once-tied Oilers, Ashland (0-1) against Wilmington (0-1), and Bluffton (1-1) against Ohio Northern in the Polar Bear's initial kickoff.

Wichita, (20-14 loser to Bowling Green last week, invades Cincinnati for the Bearcats' Missouri Valley opener. Dayton, which bowed 14-0 to Cincinnati in the first tilt, entertains Richmond, Va.

Other non-loop frays send Morgan State against Central State, Youngstown against New Haven State, Kent State against Baldwin Wallace, and Lockbourne Air Force Base of near Columbus against Bowling Green.

Athens Honors Finsterwald But Palmer Big Star

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — PGA champion Dow Finsterwald has received almost all the honors his home town here could bestow upon him.

But it was during Thursday's celebration that fellow golfer and Masters champion Arnold Palmer walked off with one of Finsterwald's records.

In a four-man match at the Athens Country Club, Palmer blazed a 62 to break Finsterwald's course record of 63 set in 1953. Finsterwald shot a four-under-par 68 over the 6,382-yard layout.

Palmer teamed up with Columbus amateur Jackie Nicklaus, who also carded 68, to win a best-ball match against Finsterwald and Gallipolis amateur Howard Baker Saunders. The latter, a six-time Southeastern Ohio Golf Assn. champ, posted a 71.

At the start of the day-long celebration, the 28-year-old Finsterwald, his wife, Linda, and their twins, Ted and Jean, who will soon be 2, toured the city in a motorcade. At Ohio University, where Finsterwald graduated in 1952, he was presented the keys of the city and honors from the university.

At a banquet attended by 300 persons, a life-size photograph was unveiled of Finsterwald holding the PGA championship trophy which he won this summer.

William Way's Surprise Winner In 'Jug' Review

CLEVELAND (AP)—The surprise winner of the silverware in the Little Brown Jug Review at Northfield Thursday night was William Way, the only starter who did not compete in last week's Brown Jug race.

William Way took the second heat after finishing fourth in the opening mile.

The Jug winner, Shadow Wave, was not at Northfield, but Thorpe Hanover, twice second in the pacing classic for three-year-olds at Delaware, Ohio, won Thursday night's first heat in the track record time of 2:02.

However, Thorpe Hanover broke stride and was sixth and last in the final mile.

Kerwin-Ryff Bout Slated For Capital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Canadian welterweight champion Gale Kerwin tries to improve his standing in this country tonight when he faces Frankie Ryff in a 10-round bout in Capital Arena.

The odds, though slight, are against him.

Ryff, a Bronx lightweight, is a 7-5 favorite.

Friday night faithful across the country will have a chance to see not only the battlers in the televised show (NBC, 9 p.m. EST) but also the managerial bow of Barney Ross.

Ross, former welter and lightweight champion, took over Ryff two months ago. With his own second of the 1930s, Whitey Bimstein, Ross has been prepping Frankie for a crack at the national rankings.

Ryff was once highly rated, but lost standing when opponents discovered that repeated taps on his brow would open old wounds.

After an eight-month layoff, during which he underwent forehead repairs, Ryff returned to action last December and has taken five straight decisions. A pro since 1951, he has won 26 and lost 5. He has knocked out three, but none since his freshman year.

Kerwin, who started boxing professionally in 1954, has won 28, dropped 7 and had 1 draw. He took the Canadian welter title three weeks ago by stopping Cliff Fiddler on a 12th round TKO.

Cleveland Could Finish In Third Place Or Sixth

CLEVELAND (AP)—When the Cleveland Indians hang up their spikes at season's end Sunday, they could be in third place—or in sixth.

Only 2½ games separate third-place Detroit from sixth - place Baltimore. Cleveland and the Boston Red Sox are tied for fourth, a half-game down from the Tigers.

The Tribe must win two of their final three games with Detroit here this weekend to stay in contention for third place.

Manager Joe Gordon has nominated Don Ferrarese to open against the Tigers' Billy Hoeft tonight. Saturday, Cal McLish will take the hill for Cleveland, opposing Paul Foyback.

Saumell Rides Two Winners At Waterford

Jockey Francisco Saumell strengthened his lead in the two-way race for leading riding honors at Waterford Park Thursday by booting home two winners, including the second half of the daily double.

The number combination of 3 and 4 paid $51.00. Gold Imperial won the first race with Jockey Nick Fernicola aboard and paid $16, $5.60 and $5.40 and Saumell brought Charlotte War to the wire in the second race. She paid $5.20, $4.20 and $2.80.

Saumell's two winners gave him a total of 24 for the first 16 days of the 48 - day fall meet. In second place is Vic Bovine who failed to ride a winner Thursday. Bovine has a total of 21. Both jockeys are far ahead of their competitors with Oliver Cutshaw, in third place, with only 9 while Fernicola has 8.

Redlegs' Rookie Hurler Will Face Big Test Tonight

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Cincinnati's Redlegs have a strong and promising young southpaw named O'Toole who faces the stiffest kind of major league test.

Jim O'Toole, 21-year-old, 6-foot son of a Chicago policeman, starts against Milwaukee's National League champs tonight under the close scrutiny of Redleg brass.

O'Toole's record with Nashville of the Southern Assn. this season makes him the hottest young prospect in recent years.

He stacked up 20 victories against 8 losses while making an earned run mark of 2.44. And he pitched 20 complete games.

He'll be opposed tonight by Lew Burdette, veteran righthander who is usually a prime Redleg troublemaker and is now 3-2 against Cincinnati for the season.

Bassey-Moore Match Likely

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World-featherweight champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey will defend his title in Los Angeles — barring some unforeseen obstacle — against Davey Moore of Springfield, Ohio, in December.

The 23-year-old Moore, the No. 1 contender, earned the title match Thursday night when he decisively outpointed Kid Anahuac of Mexico City in 10 rounds at the Olympic Auditorium.

The Springfield rifle never lost a round and was never pressed in whipping the contender from Mexico. Moore weighed 129, Anahuac 127.

Watching the fight were Bassey and his manager from England, George Biddles.

"Moore is a strong and very good fighter," said Bassey.

Biddles and Moore's manager, Willie Ketchum, conferred briefly with matchmaker George Parnassus after the fight.

Biddles gave strong indication that Moore will be Bassey's next opponent for the title.

Moore and Anahuac fought in July in Tijuana to a split decision which brought on a riot. There was no riot and no split decision Thursday night.

Anahuac backtracked all the way, but in the ninth Moore caught him with a solid right to the chin for the only knockdown of the evening.

Palestine Pilots Club To Sponsor Air Show

EAST PALESTINE — The Pilots Club will hold an air show Sunday from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. at Kerner's Airport near Petersburg.

The main feature will be parachute jumps by members of the Cleveland Chapter of the Parachute Chapter of the Parachute Club of America. The program also will include stunt flying, bomb dropping and spot landing contests.

In event of rain, the event will be held Oct. 5.

Columbia's Heavy Pick To Capture Cup

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Unless Columbia is swallowed by a whale almost everyone along the America's Cup waterfront expects her to win the 107-year-old trophy today with the greatest of ease.

The American defender has shown complete superiority over Sceptre, the British challenger.

She's piled up her 3-0 margin in the best-of-seven series with victories in light, moderate and heavy air. Even when a fourth race was called because the yachts couldn't finish within the time limit, Columbia was a mile ahead.

Even the British have now conceded publicly that Columbia is the faster boat.

When asked if Columbia were the superior boat, Sceptre's assistant helmsman, Colin Ratsey, answered simply:

"I would say so."

Neither crew had been willing to say so until Sceptre sailed in the heavy winds she expected to find in the Atlantic off here in September. Sceptre had her blow Thursday and Columbia crossed the finish line a mile and a quarter ahead.

"We got what we asked for and the results proved we were probably wrong," said Colin Ratsey, Sceptre's assistant helmsman.

American designers, noting Sceptre's chesty hull compared with the knife-edge prows of American 12-meter yachts, had said, "If they're right we're wrong."

The first census of the United States, taken in 1790, revealed that 95 per cent of the population at that time lived on farms. Today the percentage is about 25.

Approximately 50 per cent of the world's fresh water is contained in the five Great Lakes of North America.

U. S. Student Visits Soviet Church

By BEVERLY DEEPE
Written for The Associated Press

Below me was a mass of praying humanity.

The wooden benches were invisible under the crowd. People stood on the stairways. They were packed six deep in the side door which opened onto a pile of rubble.

This was a Baptist church service in Moscow which I was visiting as a member of the U.S.-U.S.S.R. student exchange. Two other members and Victor, our Russian translator, came to church with me.

An elderly man in a dark gray suit at the church door motioned us upstairs to the balcony. All the seats in the church were filled, except for a long narrow visitors bench next to the railing.

The old women among the 1,500 worshippers wore black or brown dresses with white or printed bandanas. Only three wore dark straw hats with simple trim.

Old men with white beards and mangy suits were sprinkled throughout the congregation.

And—although the Communist line says religion is for old women—I noticed about every fifth person in the congregation looked under 35.

(The American Baptist Convention headquarters in New York says the Baptist Church in the Soviet Union has grown from 28,900 members in 1912 to 530,000 members today. Baptists say 8,000 converts have been baptized since Jan. 1, 1958, and more are on probation).

Between each verse of the hymn, the music stopped and the minister recited the next one. There were no hymnals in the church. Some members carried the verses in books printed in the old pre-Revolutionary orthography. Many carried the verses in their hearts.

I shall remember this singing for years—a slow, melancholy, almost despairing singing that reverberated from the high white ceiling and the undecorated walls.

The minister's sermon interwove Scripture readings with Christian principles to be followed by the congregation. A woman across from me wiped her eyes as the minister instructed the worshipers to remain strong despite many troubles and temptations. I saw other women blowing their noses.

A stifled sobbing rose throughout the congregation when the closing prayer asked forgiveness for wrongdoing and Christian acts omitted from their lives.

Throughout the service, white slips of paper fluttered from the balcony and were passed to the front of the room. From them, a minister read greetings from other Baptist churches behind the Iron Curtain. The congregation responded: "Greetings." Other messages requested prayers for the sick.

As we left the church, Victor—a member of the Young Communist League — said: "It was jammed. This surprised me."

It surprised me too, for I kept thinking of the pressures against church going which I had noted in this atheistic society—a society which pulls children from worship on Sunday morning for a movie sponsored by Communist youth organizations.

This is a society in which a Russian Orthodox professor repeats the Soviet government line on why the Russian Orthodox Church in the United States and the Soviet Union are separated.

"Heretics won't recognize the power of the metropolitan in Moscow because of their own political views and because they are supported by the U.S. government," he said.

This is a society whose Academy of Science and Museum of Religion in Leningrad labels the Roman Catholic Pope as "the banker and capitalist" and terms the Vatican "the great financial center."

And I thought: Religion in the Soviet Union can meet these obstacles only with tears such as I saw in this service, and the words: "We pray. We don't criticize."

Death Ends Bear's Whirl At City Life

BUENA VISTA, Colo. (AP) — A big black bear who gave up mountain life for a whirl in the city is dead.

Game Warden Bryan Denton killed him with a rifle Thursday as a safety measure.

The 153-pound bear wandered into town Wednesday, made his way into an orchard, stuffed himself with apples and then climbed into a tree to take things easy.

Authorities tried unsuccessfully to run the bear back into the mountains before shooting him.

Study Shows Rich, Poor Have Similar Number Of Children

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—The rich get richer and the poor get children, goes an old saying. But the new word at the University of Michigan is that this isn't quite true.

A research study here says both income groups are having about the same number of children.

This is especially the case of city people, says Dr. David Goldberg, of the University of Michigan Institute of Public Administration.

Goldberg spent a year going over records compiled by U of M's Detroit Area Study and other statistical agencies.

He found that early in marriage close home and kinship ties are the main factors in considering additional children.

Later, he said, after two or three children have arrived, the question is similar to that of purchasing a luxury item—"Can we afford it?"

The pattern for large or small families also depends on whether the husband or wife is the chief decision maker.

"Men are primarily influenced by such factors as status and income," Goldbert said. If a man is earning $12,000 and thinks he can afford more children, the couple will have them if the main decision is up to him.

A woman, Goldberg said, is influenced by such factors as whether she likes to spend her leisure time around the home.

Ferry's Captain Faces Hearing In Lake Erie Crash

CLEVELAND (AP) — On the charge that he was negligent, ship Capt. Louis A. Sabo will be given a hearing Nov. 19. His vessel, the car ferry Ashtabula, sank in a collision with the ore freighter Ben Moreell.

A Coast Guard investigating officer, Lt. Edward F. Oliver, announced the charges of negligence late Thursday. He said that on Sept. 18, day of the collision in Ashtabula Harbor, Sabo failed to follow a previously assigned course, failed to sound proper whistle signals and to "slacken speed, stop or reverse engines in dangerous circumstances."

The Ashtabula, a 338-foot vessel, had been shuttling back and forth across Lake Erie for half a century, carrying railroad cars and general merchandise. She settled in 27 feet of water after the collision.

The Moreell is being repaired at Ashtabula Harbor. She suffered a five-foot gash in her bow, above the water line.

Turtles will live longer out of water when placed on their backs. Otherwise, their internal organs are compressed by the weight of their shells.

Hancock Schools Close Wednesday In County Census

Hancock County public school children will get a holiday Wednesday while teachers and principals take the school census required by state law every five years.

Assistant Supt. Robert Lindsey said questionnaires will be sent home Monday with the pupils for the parents to fill out in time for the arrival of the teachers.

The teachers will check the questionnaire with each parent to make sure it is understood and filled out properly.

Lindsey urged co-operation of the parents to assure an accurate census.

The enumeration will list all minors between newborn and 20 years of age, inclusive, and handicapped persons of all ages. The last census covered minors between 4 and 20 and was not as extensive for the handicapped, Lindsey said.

Tests on commercial jet engines are powered by old fashioned kerosene. It works just as well in tests as the conventional JP-4 jet fuel, and is more economical.
